

All right, you guys, welcome. Yes. We are here together for day two of the 2026 forecast event. I am so happy you're here. Truly, truly happy. Thank you for joining us. All right, if you were here yesterday, first of all, put it in the chat. Tell us if you were here yesterday. It was amazing. It was incredible. I love this event every year, but wow, it was so good.

Gary, Mark, Rebecca and Adam were on fire. And there were just so many gems. There was so much insight, so much wisdom. If you missed it, do not worry because you are going to get the replay emailed out tomorrow. So more on that to come. But don't worry if you missed it. Just see how excited everybody was in the chat and make sure you make time and space to catch up with it because.

Wow. All right. And we are in for even more goodness here today before we get there. For those of you who don't know me, my name is Amanda Walsh. I'm the founder of Astrology Hub and the host of the Astrology Hub podcast. And I just want to warmly welcome you, all of you. How many of you are first timers? This is your first live Astrology Hub event. If so, put it in the chat.

Welcome. We are so happy that our orbits have crossed and that you've decided to join us here. There are lots of first timers yesterday, too. It's so great. I hope you love it. I think you will. And old friends, all of our old friends who've been hanging out with us for years, some of you, 10 years, put in the chat how many times you've been at this event.

Is this your second time? Your third, fourth, fifth, tenth? Would love to see that, too. Okay. And before we go any further, I want to thank all of you who decided to generously give as you wish the contributions that you have made. They touch our hearts so deeply because it just shows that we are in a reciprocal communion here. And it's beautiful. So thank you for that. And it really does help us do these free events more often.

It supports the podcast, it supports the astrologers that we bring in here. So thank you for that. All right, people yesterday asked, can we still give as we wish? And the answer is yes, we're going to put the chat to do. We're going to put the link to do that in the chat. Also, if you're watching this recording, the link to do it is underneath this video. So, yes, you still can contribute if you want.

Okay, so before we jump forward into today, I want to take a moment to reflect on Yesterday. So just kind of go back there in time and space if you were here. One of the closing rituals that I do after every live event that we have, even in the inner circle as well, is I ask my team, my amazing team, to send me the chat. And I sit and read every single comment.

And I feel the energy of the group because sometimes it's happening so fast when we're live that I can't. But it's just this way that I close the event for myself. And here's what I noticed in 94 pages of comments. 94. You guys, this community, you are amazing. So supportive, so encouraging, truly open and curious, very sincere in your desire to connect with the cosmos, to connect with your place in the cosmos, and to support these incredible astrologers who are generously providing their time, their wisdom, and their guidance to all of us.

So thank you. It is the coolest thing to see. We do read all the comments, so everything you're saying we're going to see later and we're going to feel your energy. So thank you for that. All right. And I also wanted to recap, at the end of the call yesterday, I asked, what's one takeaway? What's one thing that you're taking away from this event? And there were some really clear themes, and one of the biggest ones was to trust your instinct, to not try to over plan ahead, but really trust your inner knowing.

And if you don't know right now, trust that you will know when you need to, to listen to your soul. This is the time to be asking, what does my soul want? There was also a huge, very strong theme of rebirth. And I was thinking about this. Not all of us had an idyllic first birth into this life. Right? We have another opportunity in February of 2026. There is a collective rebirth, and there's an individual rebirth.

And one of the things Rebecca brought in is how important the first moments of birth are to really imprint and create a repeatable pattern that will repeat throughout someone's life. So we are literally being reborn into a new moment here, here on this planet, in this lifetime. And we have an opportunity to mother ourselves, to nurture ourselves, to be kind to ourselves, to be curious and open, and to really imprint the moment consciously and with awareness.

So that's exciting. All right. A lot of you talked about this idea of putting the backpack down. Mark Lawrenson brought that in. We have been doing a lot of collective healing, clearing, undoing, karmic patterns that we have inherited throughout lineage, throughout our lineage, throughout many Many thousands of years, I'm sure. And I know a lot of you have been really immersed in that work. What Mark brought in is now is a time that we can actually put that backpack down and start wholeheartedly looking towards the future and creating the life that we came here to create.

So that's also exciting. People talked about choosing life over fear, releasing the future that you thought you were supposed to have. And there was something else that really stood out for me. It's a sense of presence, a sense of being here now, consciously deciding to stay awake for whatever it is to come, to stay engaged with your life. No checking out, no forcing clarity before clarity is there, but meeting the moment consciously.

And this tells me something so important about you and about this, this community. You're not here to be told, to be listening to predictions about what's going to happen. You are here to participate in this moment, to participate in your life. Which brings me back, and I promise we'll get to the astrologer, astrologers here really, really quickly. But it brings me back to another image that I shared at the beginning of yesterday, and that is that we are all big wave surfers.

My love has surfed big waves his whole life. And so before the event yesterday, I asked him, when you're seeing a swell come in, what are you looking for? What kind of decisions are you making when you see, okay, here is a huge swell, I'm going to go out and I'm going to surf that swell, which is essentially 20, 26 for all of us. And he said he's watching the rhythm of the waves, he's watching the wind, the direction of the wind, where, where the break is, where's the best place to catch the waves, where the channels are so that paddling out is easier.

Where are the riptides? You really want to avoid those. And he's choosing the right board, choosing when to paddle, choosing where not to go. And yes, there's also a mindset, a real one. And he is absolutely. Any big wave surfer is absolutely aware that this could be dangerous, that you could be facing. You are facing something bigger than you. But instead of letting fear take over, you choose life, you choose adventure.

You choose the thrill of being alive and being able to participate with a force like the ocean. And so here we are choosing to participate with the force that is the universe, choosing exactly how we're going to meet these waves. Are we going to surf elegantly? Are we going to be wild? Are we going to be creative? Are we going to try something Totally new that we've never tried before.

So here we are. You are all big wave surfers. You may or may not have known that until this moment, but get your boards out and get ready to get. The astrologers are going to give us the read on the ocean, on the tides, and so we have all the information we need to choose when and where to paddle to choose how we're going to surf. All right.

Because the astrology of this year is so dynamic, we decided to do things a little bit differently. Normally, we walk through the year chronologically, but this year, each astrologer is going to be telling contributing a chapter to the story of 2026. And between all seven astrologers, you're gonna get a really rich and full book of 2026. And then, of course, you are going to be contributing your chapters.

You, this is what it's all about, is you contributing your chapters to this book. And if you're like me, I Capricorn sun and Venus and Mercury. I still like the chronological order. So we've provided a download that does walk you through all of the most important transits of this year in chronological order. So you have that. That was given to you in your welcome email. If you're watching the replay, you can see it underneath the video.

And if you're here live, you can get it in the chat. Okay, you might want to have that out as we walk through the different energies and signatures of the year ahead. Okay, just a few more things, I promise. If you are new to astrology, I saw some of you yesterday who were like, whoa, I'm new. I don't really know what's going on. First of all, high five.

Like, the fact that you're here is so awesome. And don't worry, if you don't absorb every single thing, there will be places where we go where you are like, whoa, what are they even talking about? But all you have to do is notice. Be in your body and notice what resonates. What, like, rings a bell and you go, ooh, that landed right. What activates you, what kind of gets you excited and looking forward, and what feels like a seed being planted in your soul, in your heart.

So pay attention for that. And you're here because you're here for a reason. You're here in this event for a reason. And you're here because your life matters to this moment. Okay, so everyone, just allowing yourselves to be fully and completely here. All right, Some logistics. We're going to be here together for two hours. We are going to take a short five minute break a little bit after the hour.

If you have questions, please put them in the chat. We will answer as many as we can at the end. And today we should have a little bit more time for that. No personal chart questions. We will definitely not have the opportunity for for live chart reading, although we do do that in the Inner Circle. All right, without further ado, it is now time to bring our stellar astrologers on screen to talk about 2026 and the story of 2026. So Adam, Penny, and Brett, please unmute and show yourself. Reveal yourself to us. There they are. Penny, she's coming. You did it.

Yay. Okay, so here we go. I'm going to introduce them real quick. Adam, Ellen Boss, Hellenistic astrologer and author with a prolific YouTube channel. Penny Thornton, also with a prolific YouTube chat channel, World renowned astrologer and author. And Gemini Brett, astrology and astronomy for astrologers expert. We have. This is an incredible panel. It's amazing. So let's just start. Can you guys tell us your sun, moon in rising and also what you're excited about for today.

Let's start with Penny. Oh, you would, wouldn't you? I have a moon in Scorpio. We don't like to talk about what we got a little bit under wraps. Libra rising and sun in Aries. Oh, awesome. And what I'm excited about are kind of two things, really. I mean, it's just great to be with a team. I mean, just recently I've done some other things where I've worked with a whole group of people and it's so inspiring because we work on our own, mostly astrologers, whether we're writing or producing videos.

So it's just wonderful to share the stage and to hear other people's views. And I'm really looking forward to that. And the other thing I'm excited about, which I'll probably talk about when it comes to me is what's going on in the world right now and how the astrology is telling the story. And that, to me, is riveting. If we needed any proof that astrology works, just look what's going on.

Perfect. Thank you, Patty. Welcome. All right, let's go to Adam. Okay. I'm sun in Cancer, moon in Capricorn, and Taurus rising. And yeah, I love the opportunity to work in groups and have panel discussions because my on my YouTube channel every day. You know, it's just. It's me. And so having the opportunity to be in more of a dialogue about the things that I'm always writing and thinking about is really nice because it really expands my thinking and often opens up new creative directions for me that might blossom now or later in my own work too.

So, yeah, I just really like the opportunity, and I love working with astrology. Hub, you guys are great. Thanks, Adam. Amazing. Welcome. All right. And Brett. I was born with a Gemini moon at night and Gemini on the rise. The sun was in the sign of Scorpio, and I'm really excited to be here. Things that excite me as well as I'm drinking a really old pu'. Er. This is a tea from the 1980s, the last time that Saturn and Neptune were conjunct.

Of course, we'll spend some time with their upcoming meeting, and I'm super exciting that here we meet on Wednesday on Miracles on Mercury's day with Mercury in the heart of the sun. The thing I wrote about that today is that our weird words are sure to change the world if they start in the heart. We know that Mercury's with the sun and with Pluto and Venus or the fields.

But also, this is a Aquarius Mercury sun conjunction that began the cycle that began in Scorpio. So really, we want that authenticity, right? And it's that, you know, heart, energy, that river of the fields that will surely change the world. We also want to be careful with our authenticity, not to freak people out. So we'll see how all of that goes today. Last thing I'll say is this.

It's so wonderful to gather together with voices that I greatly respect and all of your hearts here. I'm seeing you in the chat. Thank you so much, so much to have that community, but also to know that as the fixed signs remind us that we will fix the world by fixing ourselves, so may this be something that applies to each and every one of us individually, so collectively we can create great change.

I love it. Thank you. You See you guys. The astrologers and we at astrology have, we appreciate community as much as you do. And you being here gives us that gift. So thank you for sharing your energy with all of us. All right, we are going to kick this off with Adam. Ellen Boss, your story for 2026, tell us what it is. Yeah, I really have been spending a lot of time with the upcoming Saturn Neptune conjunction in Aries, which is taking place in February.

I think it's the 20th if I'm not mistaken. But it's coming up and I believe there's a number of events this year that are really powerful. But that to me is just right in front of me and thinking a lot about that. So I think one of the things that astrologers have talked about for a long time with the combinations of Saturn and Neptune are crises of faith.

And the basic reason for that is that Saturn is kind of wintry planet that can bring us to the limits or edge of something. And Neptune is a planet that's often inspiring and a planet that's often described in relation to spirituality and faith based practices and so on. And so when Saturn and Neptune get together in a conjunction, it's a very interesting time because we can hit a kind of spiritual rock bottom.

There can be a sense of disillusionment or despair. It has a bit of that dark night of the soul feeling to it. But then the very same combination can be the seeding point for the return, renewal and further evolution of our faith or our spiritual journey. And it's that, that careful, strange duality of a spiritual rock bottom and new beginning that is on my mind right now. I was recently rereading a text called the Rmat Bhagavatam.

And in the final canto, this is a Puranic text from the Vedic tradition, they describe some of the symptoms of spiritual rock bottom in what's called the Kali Yuga. Now, I'm not interested in whether we're literally in the Kali Yuga or not. I have no idea. But as an archetype, I found it interesting because it describes the symptoms of spiritual rock bottom in the collective. You know, for a society or people across planet Earth.

Listen to just a few of the things it says and see if they don't resonate a little bit. The text says that in such an age, spirituality, truthfulness, pure heartedness, tolerance, mercy, humility and a clear moral sense of direction in our lives diminish day by day, that wealth and power become the markers of self worth, that justice bends toward strength rather than truth. That human relationships become more and more transactional and superficial.

That how sexy you are becomes a marker of how worthy you are. That spiritual authority is judged only by how many followers you have, rather than your inner maturity or realization. That people will drift from one spiritual trend to another, only interested in what gratifies their ego, until it's challenging and then they'll leave. That people who speak cleverly are mistaken for wise. That those without money are judged unworthy.

That people who are some of the biggest hypocrites will be praised as those who are most virtuous. I mean, on and on it goes, but you can hear it and you kind of go, oh, there's, ooh, I feel a little of that in the world today. And I'm not standing in judgment of the world. But it says leadership becomes predatory, the strong dominate. Ecological stress increases psychological distress and disease becomes more complicated and more prevalent.

It, that sounds really true to me. But then it says something. It says that there's no real moral judgment of this stage within the cyclings of ages. It's just like the darkest point of night. It's when the illusion that these things are actually making us happy reaches this density. And we realize, well, these things actually don't make us happy. That the return of light begins. And it's not that instantly we figure it all out.

It's just that we start seeing, well, this stuff isn't working. And that's the Saturn, Neptune, Aries moment that I understand to be implicit in this text. It's a complete spiritual rock bottom, socially or collectively. But then it's also at this time where the illusion that these pursuits are leading us in any direction we thought they would. Happiness, actual peace, love. And they're not that. We go, hey, we need a course correction here.

I'm someone who reads a lot of the I Ching. It's been a wisdom text in my life for a long time that I, I trust with my heart in terms of looking to, for daily guidance. And the Vedic literature and the I Ching are very similar in terms of what they prescribe as the way. Both the way that the description of how things get off track and how we return to getting them back on track during such a moment.

And the I Ching is really interesting because its description of how things get off track boils down not just to one leader or political group or another throwing everything off. It says that more and more individual people within a society lose alignment, lose inner alignment with truth. With a sensitive felt sense of the right timing of when and how to act, of the tone of voice to use, of how to convey things.

This sense of falling out, of inner alignment becomes contagious throughout a society. And in time, the lack of inner alignment in small things leads to moral degradation because we start losing a compass that will gradually have moral effects on the society. And that in time, leads to the needs of the whole being replaced for competition among individuals. And then from that space, tyrannical leaders arise. Isn't that just a brilliant diagnosis?

I mean, whether it's true or not, just as an archetypal diagnosis of a spiritual rock bottom and how we get there, I feel really compelled by that. And then it says, how do you get back? Like, okay, so if that's lost, how do you get back? Well, the prescription is very similar to what Thich Nhat Hanh said. And I find it interesting that right now, as Saturn and Neptune and Aries are coming together, there's a group of Buddhist monks walking across the United States, not really in a mode of accusation, not even really in a mode of protest, but as a form of spiritual leadership, as a reminder that when we get to the bottom spiritually, there is a way back up.

And they're embodying it as they walk. And their embodiment of it is very similar to the Dharma teaching that Thich Nhat Hanh gave in his lifetime. And he said the hardest thing to envision is that it's not a leader that will make it right. It's not a political party that will make it right. It's every individual within a society recognizing that they are part of the collective leadership of the society, and that it's not the external structures and all of that that change.

First. It's the quality of the consciousness of enough individuals that tips things in a direction of the return of light. And that means that in a moment like this, a sign that's all about leadership, Aries and a combination of Saturn and Neptune in Aries that is not only about disillusionment, but that also can bring something like spiritual devotion and practice and discipline. And the hardest part about this is that in such times, there's a kind of a galvanizing, courageous call that we have to make as individuals, saying, this, this situation isn't going to change unless I change.

And that doesn't mean we have to look and judge ourselves or lack compassion or mercy or sensitivity toward ourselves and go like, oh, you're. You're a mess up. And only when you get right does that. That. That wouldn't be quite right either, right but it's that looking in the mirror that zero aries carries with Saturn and Neptune and saying, this gets better. I have to have faith that this gets better only as far as I'm willing to get better.

And that can mean that in the beginning, it's like, okay, well, if I want the poisons of a collective moment of sickness to be withdrawn from the collective body, then I have to inject the medicine. I have to care for myself. I have to eat healthy food, I have to sleep well, I have to hydrate well. I have to learn to love more. Maybe I gotta go to therapy.

Maybe I need to sit and do meditation. Maybe I need more exercise. And even if it's small, concerted efforts, it's the practice and consistency of bringing a higher vibration in one day at a time, one gentle, compassionate, forgiving, but persistent moment at a time, that we start taking collective responsibility for the direction of a Sikh society. And so I think the monks walking right now are a great example of a Saturn, Neptune, and Aries.

Call to arms, call to action. It's not super. It's not super sexy. You know, it's. It's like I remember the monk just recently on Instagram saying, well, it doesn't happen overnight. You practice. You practice mindfulness every day. And then little by little, the changes happen. And when we think of our action on that level as vital and important to the leadership of this moment, that's when both the I Ching wisdom tradition, the Vedic tradition suggests that the return of light begins.

That's. It's a tall task, but it's also so simple because it just starts with each of us doing what we can. And discipline at first can feel like, oh, it's hard to sit down every day and meditate, or it's hard to take care of myself, or it's hard to elevate my consciousness. Yes. But with time and consistency, discipline turns to devotion. And you realize it's your heart that is now suffusing the practice.

And that difference for most people comes just with a time. Just keep doing it. Even a couple of weeks of sitting five minutes a day, and you suddenly realize it's not a chore anymore. It's something that you care about. So that discipline to devotion is also a turn that Saturn and Aries can help us make when it comes to how to take responsibility when it comes to spiritual accountability and leadership in the world.

So that's what I wanted to share. Just a little meditation on this collective moment in light of these archetypes that I hope is Useful. So useful and so empowering. I mean, thank you for taking us on that journey from the bigger perspective collectively of what's happening and where it started. I mean, it even started with the individual from what you just shared. And it is solved with the individual, with all of us as individuals, as you just shared.

This is beautiful. Penny or Gemini Brett, do you, Would you like to reflect on anything that Adam shared? Well, I'd just like to say that I just got so engrossed in what you were saying, Adam, and it's very profound and these references to various disciplines, I think it all makes a tremendous sense for you through this Saturn Neptune lens and. Yeah, and yes, I went right with you, Adam.

It was really, really beautiful. I think we all did for sure. Penny, how about you? Gemini Brett? Yeah, Profound, beautiful. And so important. I am interested in when the Yugas shifts. Yeah, I'm like very deeply interested in many sacred traditions speaking about the turning of the ages. In fact, I began my astrological study with Daniel Gemario, who then was at the Shamanic Astrology Mystery School. But now the name of the school is the Turning of the Ages Mystery School.

I don't know if you can hear the helicopters, but they don't want me talking about this stuff. And yet we shall persist. So, you know, in the old writings it would suggest that these Yuga cycles, these long cycles that speak to the evolution of our consciousness and the devolution of our consciousness. Adam, read to you what it looks like when we are in our lowest. You know, in the Greek terminology, this would be the Iron Age or the Kali Yuga and warlike and materialistic.

And everybody in the chat's like, oh yeah, yes, yes, yes, that's now, right. So in the old calculations, the whole cycle of, you know, to use these terms that might be more familiar with you is like the Golden Age, the Silver Age, the Bronze Age and the Iron age. It's like 4,320,000 years long, right? So it's like tracking that is just nuts. And it's like the breath of creator, right?

But Sri Yari Yukteswar, who was Yogananda's guru, said that they did the math wrong because they were doing it in the Kali Yuga, which is a really interesting theory, right? And he ties it to the precessional cycle and says that we're doing that math wrong as well. And so that's like a 24,000 year cycle. So obviously a much shorter range of time. And in Yukteswar's model, there's A descending golden age and silver and bronze.

So we're kind of falling from our height when we're closest to the divine and realize the light in ourselves. And then he saw like the bottom of the thing, like the end of the descending Iron Age to be linked to 500 AD. And then we start climbing like we're still in iron but we're climbing up. And that that shift happens in like 1700 and speaks about the Industrial Revolution and some other things.

There's a really interesting book released pretty recently called Yuga Shift. I definitely recommend check it out, although it gets a little scary. So you are warned. Gemini. Brett's like, I want to look at all these things. Scorpio Joe is interested in that scary stuff, but it's also about the rebirth, right? Which I think we all feel we need now. So this is a book by Bibu Dev Mishra and he agrees with the 24,000 year timeline from Yukteswara, but he sees that like the bottom of the bottom and us climbing from that was more like 676 BC and that the big shift is 2025 now.

I think everybody wants to say it's our time now. Like anybody incarnated, they're like this is the second coming, you know, whatever the tale you want through. But I do feel that, you know, it's in our bones that we are in the midst of this great shift. And I would suggest the astronomy agrees and this is like the importance of the idea of the turning of the ages.

And another book that I really recommend here is by the great John Major Jenkins who wrote a wonderful text called Maya Cosmogogenesis and then a follow up called Galactic Alignment. And hey Brett, I just want to say real quick, we are making a list of all of the recommended books and readings and things that the astrologers from yesterday and today are mentioning. And that'll be a free download for you in the on the replay page for this there will be a link to it.

So don't worry about scribbling every book reference down. We're doing it for you. So sorry. Go ahead. Thanks for that, Amanda. A guy that calls himself Gemini should probably bring a bunch of book titles in. I should mention one more though. Sri Yari Yukteswar's book, and it's just in the preface and it's like this long is called the Holy Science where he first lays out this idea of the 24,000 year cycle.

All right, well, what's happening now is that through the Earth's third motion, which is Axial precession that the axis of Earth, our rotational axis, I like to call that the spine of Gaia or the sword of our stone or the world tree, as many have it's precessing through the Milky Way galaxy. So the way that this looks is zero tropical cancer that's north and zero tropical Capricorn that's south are moving through the Milky Way band.

And it only happens every 13,000 years and only happens like this every 26,000 years, or these cats would argue 24,000. And Daniel asked a great astronomer to do the math by hiding the fact that he was an astrologer. And it's centered around May of 1998. And Daniel adds 36 years before and after, we might say 50, we might say more. But the idea, and I know you feel it in your bones, we're going through this significant transformation in consciousness and much of the old energy and wisdom is ripe for returning.

But you know, we need to purge a lot of the things that have blocked us from receiving, you know, the, the messages from the ancients and learn to listen to the signs and the symbols and the synchronicities and to hear the, the language of the birds. And so here we are, right? And our weird words will change the world. I want to ask you guys, now, I know this isn't a double blind, peer reviewed study that we're going to conduct right now.

However, it would be really interesting to see since consciousness is a collective while we have our individual tuning into consciousness, but then together we create a collective consciousness. How many of you in your own individual lives feel like your consciousness has shifted dramatically either throughout your life or even more recently where you may have been bought into certain things, like what Adam was talking about earlier, but that you're, you're beginning to see more and more truth, more and more light you're being, you feel more light, you feel more clear, you feel more connected to the divine.

I'd love to see because my guess is that it's an absolutely and I'm seeing absolutely. So we're just a little, a little microcosm, right? This little community here on this planet. But there's probably a lot more just like us having conversations like this and experiencing this process of awakening together and individually. So this is really cool to see. It's overwhelming. And so even if you're watching this going, but, but like what's going on in the world, it's so dark, it's so.

It's like, yes, and there's so many people waking up, there's so much more light pouring through, and it's coming through people like you. So this is beautiful. Okay, let's go. We're going to have lots of time for more discussion between all of you guys. And let's go to Penny next. Penny, tell us a story about 2026. What's the story? I think I'm in danger of bringing the entire tone down.

Well, it's okay. This is good. But I'm going to bring us right down to Earth, and that's good. And we need it. We need all the perspectives. We want the truth. We want various perspectives. That's why we do panels. So go. Yeah. I think, Amanda, when we did our little prep series together, and you sort of dropped in there. Give me a NutShell. What is 2026 in a nutshell?

And I suddenly thought, oh, my goodness. What do I think 2026 is in a nutshell? And I think I blurted something out like atonement being a theme. And then I realized when I went back and thought about why I thought that was significant for 2026. It obviously has shades of Neptune and Saturn in Pisces, really, the idea of atonement. And we've seen so many situations in the world where celebrities or leaders have fallen off their perch and had to atone for past mistakes.

And I think to a certain extent, that that will continue. But when I thought about it a little bit more, when it came to really thinking about this panel, I thought what 26. 2026 presented to us was crisis and opportunity. And I came to think of this as a reflection of these really, really quite difficult and challenging alignments. And then they're not easy. None of them are. Whether we look at the little triad with Neptune and Uranus and Pluto, and we see how all the way through the year as it was last year, 2025, we had oppositions occurring and trines creating these big configurations like kites and cradles and mystic rectangles.

And, of course, when you've got all these big alignments occurring, it's as though everything is singing on the same note. So you've got real pressure, you've got real intensity. And I was thinking about that in terms of the same sort of feel going on in 2026 with a lot of crises. But, of course, out of crises comes opportunity. Because every time we meet a situation in our own lives that is overwhelming and that we feel we're not equipped to deal with, or we fear what will happen at the other side of it if it goes this way or that way, it's how we marshal our resources and how we come to dealing with that situation and working through it that then creates a great opportunity.

However you want to look at that, whether you want to see an opportunity as what happens next, or whether it's something more to do with how our appreciation of the world goes, our ability to see things and have an awareness and consciousness about things that's much wider and bigger than we had before. We could look at it on all levels. And so we look at what's going on in the world, and we can't really ignore the fact that there are so many conflicts and so many potential flashpoints that could really destroy us if we're not careful.

And we think about the Earth's resources running out. There are a lot of things that we have to pay attention to. We can't just shut our eyes and say, oh, that doesn't exist. Let's leave it to the next generation. It's really our generation that's having to deal with it. And so right on target on this big, big stellium of the Sun, Venus, Mercury, Pluto, and in fact, the Moon was in Aquarius yesterday as well.

So this whole movement, connection with Pluto, which is what I would consider to be a crisis point here in the world. We have Europe and America at a crisis point. You know what's going to happen? Is Europe going to go to war with America? No, it's not. I'm sure that's not going to happen. So what's happened out of the incredible tension and division and upset furor about all of this is that now everybody's meeting at Davos under the canopy of this very, very powerful stellium, this group of planets.

That is unusual. There was one way back in 1962, I think it was all in Aquarius, if I remember rightly. So we have this. And out of everything that seems to be so precarious and perilous at the moment, there is the opportunity for something much better to come out of this. So that as. Because we've got to remember that although we talk about each of us experiencing a shift or a change in our consciousness and a sense of, you know, seeing more of the picture than we used to do, we've got to remember that this can happen to our leaders as well.

It isn't just us who are perhaps more able to talk about, share, write, read about. It's happening everywhere. And so we have to assume that inasmuch as we are seeing a bigger picture and also feeling ourselves approaching the situations in our own lives in a different way. The same thing is happening on the world stage in terms of various leaders. So we have an opportunity here for not the end of NATO, this great alliance that has been there for 75 years and has kept the world, the Western world, stable.

What we have instead is an opportunity to change the dynamics of that alliance and make it work better, make it stronger. And to me, that just epitomizes everything about this year as we go forward, because there are going to be several points in this year where we have what I would call a cluster of influences, a cluster of planets. And they're always going to be the junctions of big global events, inasmuch as as they are also going to be junctions for we ourselves and being a sort of practical person and doing a lot of teaching with astrology.

I think there's a way of sort of preparing for this in terms of here we are, we've reached another point of where there's the potential out of crisis for opportunity. It's always going to be where we have perhaps the squares from planets to Pluto, the oppositions from planets to Pluto, which means we're always going to be looking at this late period of January or late April or late July or late October.

And the same really, when we go beyond that and we think about Uranus moving into Gemini. So here we have naught degrees to 5 degrees of the mutables being brought out, which means now we're looking at the end of February, we're looking, looking at the end of May, we're looking at the end of Sept, End of August. Oh gosh, I always lose it when it comes to this point.

End of August and then finally the end of November. And when we think about what the change assigned for Uranus moving into Gemini, then we have a whole sense of perhaps some of the things that have been so hard to resolve and so dense in a way that we can't grapple with them or get around them. Uranus is going to bring a great flash of light and awakening in Uranus in Gemini.

And then finally we come to the Saturn Neptune conjunction. And I thought a lot about the Saturn Neptune conjunction. I've talked a lot about it at conferences, seminars, and in my writings as well. And not only do I feel very personally involved with the Saturn Neptune conjunction because it's actually sitting on my Sun. You know, my sun is one degree of Aries. So here comes Saturn and Neptune floating about it all of last year and also going to conjoin almost on the degree of my Sun.

So There is definitely a very big message being brought to me there. But I look back also at the last Saturn Neptune conjunction, which was in the November. Well, it was throughout, on and off through 1989, but just when the Berlin Wall came down. And I remember living through that and really feeling this very palpable sense that everything was changing, that suddenly there was this enormous breakthrough that the spirit, if you like, as represented by Neptune, had triumphed over all that restriction that had well embodied in the war.

The wall of Saturn broke down through the spirit of the people. And what followed, of course, was the breakup of the Soviet Union. So I'm not going to get into all the connections with the Soviet Union, Russia and the Saturn Neptune conjunction, which is very strong. The same with the British monarchy. I could do that, but that's not for now. What I want to, I think get to is that this time round and you could say the last time that Saturn Neptune conjunction was in Capricorn and yet that very powerful sense of the light coming in and that those things that were blocking the freedom or the spiritual expression, the freedom of the people, whatever it was, it was still in the sign of Capricorn, which one thinks always of a very organized structured is a Saturn rule sign.

This time around, this Saturn Neptune conjunction is happening in Aries. And we've also got to remember that we've been very close to that. I mean, Saturn and Neptune were within 12 minutes of each other back in July last year. So although they will fall on the Same degree on February 20, we are already in that Saturn Neptune mode. So my feeling is I'm going to watch and wait and see what great global developments may also shift and change at this point.

But I think one thing we can be certain about is that the visionary quality of Neptune, the things that we aspire to, the spiritual quality of Neptune being very close to Saturn, which is the structure of things that we either get the forming of new, we get a structure imprinted or put together on those ideals, beliefs and spiritual experiences. We get something solid out of it or we get the other and we get Neptune eroding the boundaries and the structures that have kept us grounded and stable.

So looking at it from both directions is going to be important. And of course this comes in the sign of Aries. So we have this feeling that we're making a pioneering start and that so many of the movements and the new leaderships that will come out of this Saturn Neptune period are going to be much more. Well, we're going to see a great difference. We are going to see much more kind of thrust and force behind it than perhaps we had when we looked at the Saturn Neptune conjunction, even as they were so close in Pisces.

So the last thing I want to say on the Saturn Neptune conjunction is that for some reason today I thought about that moment when Saturn and Neptune are conjoined. Is there something in that moment that also has something to reveal? Well, of course, we're all in different parts of the world. How do you choose to set your moment? The time of the Saturn Neptune conjunction from the perspective of Las Vegas or from Sydney, Australia?

So I thought, oh, I know what I want to do. I want to set it from the point that the day begins. And so this took me to the Kiribati Islands or the island of Kiribati, which is right on the edge of. Well, as far as you can go to the date line. So I set up a chart. And what was so curious about this chart was that Pluto was rising.

So at the time of this great conjunction between Saturn and Neptune, we have a Pluto note to it. So again, we are reminded of this great cycle of change that we're going through and the turmoil that it involves, the debris and the what we've had to dig so deep for. For to then bring up to the surface, which is an uncomfortable thing individually, as it is collectively that that's sort of imprinted in what happens with this Saturn Neptune conjunction, which I also think of at the moment as representing a kind of looking glass world where lies are truth and truth are lies.

Things that we are looking at are in reverse. Sorry that I shouldn't be talking so long, but I did sort of want to get to this point where I sort of put together a lot of things that sort of are reflected in the kind of times we're in. But bringing it back. Our spiritual growth doesn't happen in a vacuum, and our consciousness expansion doesn't happen in a vacuum.

It happens because of the experiences we are faced with. So that it is, some people might say, what does it matter what's going on in the world? Why should we bother about global developments and conflicts? These are not part of where we really sit and where we really feel light and where we want to be. But I would say it's exactly the same as in our own lives, that when we are presented with a situation that we find difficult, that is the means of our expansion of consciousness.

That is the route through which we learn and develop. And as each one of us who is at this point in time, at a very important time. We are either witnesses or participants to what is going on, as each one of us, we have that experience of seeing things differently, doing something differently, however it is. I haven't got enough time to say everything. We are, in fact, contributing to the collective steps that we're taking.

So a year of crisis and opportunity is, to me, exactly what 2026 is about. Penny, thank you. Thank you for bringing in. Penny is really skilled at what is called mundane astrology, which doesn't mean boring astrology. It means Earth. It means the astrology of the world. And so bringing in those perspectives is super important, Penny, because we are all a part of it. And I don't know about all of you, but in 2020, we obviously had some huge global experiences and transits that happened.

And wouldn't you say that through those experiences, you grew and you changed and you became more aware and you became disillusioned and all the things. And so it's true. It's both and. Right. Individual, collective, collective to the individual. Micro, macro, macro, micro. It's all the same. Yeah. And one last little word on this is that we really don't know how astrology works. We haven't got a definitive mechanism, but it's when we can demonstrate things happening as you would expect them to happen and bringing us to crisis points or whatever it is.

You know, whether you want to look at that as. As above, so below, or everything is connected. There are so many ways we can interpret it and so many ways to interpret, you know, many levels to take, what these alignments and these particular groupings are about. But it is, to me, absolutely thrilling that we're living in this time and seeing our astrology come to life in just so many ways.

Beautiful. Brett. Adam, would you like to reflect or add anything to what Penny just shared? I really appreciated the piece where you were talking about the. The Berlin Wall, such as Saturn, Neptune, kind of boundary being dissolved. And, yeah, it really got me thinking about what we might see in the collective that becomes an. An event, yes, but also a symbol for some new form of consciousness seeping through our.

Our previous understanding or limits and opening up a world that's bigger. That feeling you described of the world was different when that happened. I was just a kid. I was. I think I was 10 or 9 or something. But I remember going to school and in the morning, sitting in my advisory classroom before homeroom started, and Channel one News was the network that delivered news at school for kids.

And I believe I'm 99% sure that it was Anderson Cooper as a young man who was sharing that news on the channel in my classroom. So it's wild because I think about the arc that he's been on and the world's been on since that moment, just as, like, parallel kind of storylines and everything. And I go, yeah, it is a totally different world. And that was definitely this powerful collective image of that shift.

So it gets me a little bit excited, you know, because. Not that I have a dark or pessimistic view of where we're at right now, I think, you know, it's. It's a turning point, and we're. There's something that we're ready to see shifting or turning and just being brought back to that image. And that memory from my childhood was just my favorite part of listening to that right now.

That was really, really cool. Yeah. And I think I really do want to stress having, you know, I'm much older than all of you, so I've lived through all of that. That it was palpable. I mean, really palpable. I mean, it really felt that there was this extraordinary leap that we'd made and that change was possible, and it was uplifting and thrilling. Again, going back that there have been so many other occasions during my life where there have been incredibly interesting alignments, and there have been a lot of statements about, this is a portal.

This is. You know, this is higher consciousness, this is divine consciousness coming through. We're all going to make this transition. And I think maybe at each point, there is a shift of some description. But I think, Brett, along with your idea of these great ages, these 24,000 years or whatever it is, I mean, humanity has been around for, well, arguably hundreds and thousands and hundreds of thousands of years.

So I think the shifts that we make are much. Take a lot longer than we think, and there may be little bursts, and maybe this is a burst and it helps us move, but then hopefully, there's millennia to come for humanity. But I'm not absolutely convinced that this time is the big change. And I don't want to crush anyone's hopes and beliefs, but it's just there being so many portals and convergences, and this is another.

Really? Yeah, I. We were just talking, Amanda and I, when we did our podcast episode last week or the two weeks ago or something, and I was mentioning Nicholas Campion's book, the Great Year. Penny, do you know that book? I do, actually. I haven't got it on my shelves, but. Nick. Yes, Nick, Very, very wise person. Well, what I was reminded of is just the way he presents so nicely in a number of his.

His different books that it's archetypal itself for human beings to live through periods that feel apocalyptic and revelatory and that sort of perennial that there are moments in every generation, every generation lives through that feel like you're on the cutting edge of history itself. And he maps those so nicely through the centuries. And I. I think, yeah, that's one of the things. I was a part of a group of people that developed a.

A website platform around the Mayan calendar in 2012, and I was really wrapped up in that. And I'm always a little bit cautious around that for the same reasons, which are just that, a. It's above my. My pay grade. I trust Gemini breath, though. And also, it's just I was a part of a group of people whose zeal for that shift had its own problems that came with it.

And I was right in the center of a lot of that. And so I've become just safeguarding the serenity of the present moment as much as I can, while also not denying the reality of these great cycles. You know what I mean? So it's a. It's a balance to strike within myself. I notice. Well, and. And isn't it that there are waves of consciousness again, if we go back to the ocean?

Because 2012 was absolutely massive for me, Adam. Like, it was that, like, turning point for me in my life. So I think that there are waves, and, yes, this is a wave, and for some people, it will feel more. More personal and more profound than for others. And we're all playing different roles based on where we're at in the ocean of humanity. But, yeah. Brett, did you want to say something?

I felt like you did, but maybe I'm. Too many things. I, too, went through a serious rebirth in 2012. I mean, I was pretty tied in. And, you know, let's ask this interesting question. When is New Year? So many will celebrate balls dropping and fireworks going off on January 1st, which, you know, to Penny's point, happens on Christmas island well before it does in Japan, and there before London and there before New York.

And, you know, these days I can go to sleep early after watching the New York New Year's. And that's helpful. And so many astrologers would kind of look at this idea of a Gregorian New Year as ridiculous. We might say it's when the sun has its Aries ingress, and there's, like, an astronomical support to that. That's the moment each year when the sun is due east of the center of Earth where we all connect.

It's like a global ascendant, right. Some might feel that it's the winter solstice, but of course that's the opposite time of the year between London and Brazil. Right? So, so what do you go for? Right, but what you go for matters. And when we bring our intentions to a moment, you know, and see that as a rebirthing, be it your personal solar return, be it what you feel is a solar return each year for the world, right?

Like there is power there. So I put a lot of my juice in the 2012 thing. And those who I know that also did, they went through this amazing shift now, many of us were hoping for and we heard writings about this global thing as if, you know, the next day everybody would just be enlightened and how nice would that be? And I've kind of released my need or even wish or my belief in the, in the idea that that could happen.

Right. That being said, we do see periods in the record of missing links and not in the human species alone. And when you do look to the astronomy and it's confusing, like these questions of when is the dawning of the age of Aquarius, which, you know, in those words in a way was predicted in some of the big books of old, right? When is this great Yuga shift?

They're interesting questions. And there are astronomical mechanisms that appear to be responsible for these turning of the ages. And we can look through the record and see them working. And so that's like at the heart of my work. It was at the heart of my fascinations for the sacred astronomy well before I found astrology or like eradicated enough of my own Berlin walls called science class to allow, you know, the mysteries of astrology to leak through and for me to open my ears.

And, you know, as much as I, I do have an ear to the weirdness of the world, I hesitate to put any personal faith in the so called, you know, powers that shouldn't be into the NATOs and these folks at Davos and into the New World Order. I mean, I feel hopefully the energy of these Aquarian activations. Like let's look at Pluto, right? There's going to be Sun Pluto, conjunctions in the sign of Aquarius between 2025 and 2043.

And I would love for that cycle to speak to the power of the collective, the power of the people, but probably born through the power of the person. I think this is like an important truth, that this is like Sun Pluto, right? I Asked in my community at one point, like, you know, what forces are at play that would keep the people from stepping into their power? And it was, as I like to say, a Scorpio Joe question.

I was expecting to hear things about the World Economic Forum or whatever it may be, and everybody wisely responded. And so I get to learn the people themselves, each person, right, where we need to give our power to some force to guide us through the fields, right? Instead of, you know, stepping into the power of holding our own crook, if you will. I guess I shouldn't use that word, being the shepherd rather than the sheep.

And so is that possible, right? Is there a time for some collective blossoming and just the flowers all bloom? I don't believe so, but I do believe that as each individual chooses to open themselves more to the, the lighter, ever, whatever we might want to call that, to the opportunity for this shift, that it will happen and it will like, happen more and more rapidly. Like there's a speed with each, you know, heart that opens, it's, it spreads.

And I've seen it, you know, around me. It's hard when you turn on the so called news to have any faith in humanity. But every day of my life I sit with amazing folks like you and tune into your songs and witness people growing. And we know that, you know, it's individually often that dark night of the soul that really catalyzes the opening and the growth. And this is happening collectively too.

So I'm going to retrograde back to a really important thing that Adam said before. And I'll spend some time here after the break too, which is sit every day, get quiet, listen, have a practice. This is like when I first met Adam, like, hey, do you have a practice? Right? Like this is important, right? It's not just about these things that are happening in the mental space and doing the math.

In fact, there's a time where it said Djehuti, who you may know as Thoth. And this is like when we were first falling in consciousness according to those mysteries, and there was a fear that humanity would lose all wisdom that it had cultivated as things became more material and gross. And so Djehuti, who goes to those higher than he, and he says, I have created this amazing thing that will actually allow humanity's wisdom to persist through these dark times.

And he shows them the numbers and the letters and the writing, and they say, you fool, you have destroyed wisdom, you have destroyed memory. And so of course, I'm a fan of words in books and the like. And I'm not saying that's something we need to do away with, but finding especially in this year ahead. And I'll speak more to this after our break. That stillness, that opportunity in a time of great pace to tune into grace and breath and stillness and contemplate like wisdom is not born through our experience alone.

It's born through our contemplation of experience. Personally, culturally, collectively. This is absolutely necessary. And it's one way that each of us can, I won't say, like, fight back, but tend to the other side of the things that feel absolutely chaotic in this time of birthing. Oh my God, you guys are so good. This is so amazing. This is why I love panels, because the perspectives and the way that you build upon each other's perspectives.

And the truth is, everybody so far is basically saying the same thing. There's an acknowledgment of the, of the quote unquote density or darkness that's happening around us in the world. The potential for even more chaos and conflict in those things, and yet the opportunity to really focus on what it is that you are here to contribute. What can you control in the stillness? What are you hearing?

And so, like Penny says, crisis and opportunity. Isn't that the word danger in Japanese? Am I making that up? Isn't the word danger broken down to those two words, crisis and opportunity? And I think it's Japanese. No, I did, but I wish I knew. And I think that the, the. What do you call how the, how they write their letters? It's. What is that called? Does anybody know?

Okay. Anyways, the way the, the actual breakdown of the symbol itself for the word danger is crisis and opportunity in one word. And I love that because, because isn't it true all the time? And aren't we making a choice all the time? And it sounds like this year we're going to have many of those moments of choice where it's like, what the, you know, which wolf do I feed and which one do I want to nourish?

So we're going to take a break. Okay. We're going to take a seven minute break. Ish. In this break, you are going to hear from some of our beloved inner circle members about their experience being members. And we'll do the countdown one more time. When we come back, we will do a raffle. I forgot to do the raffle earlier. So we're gonna actually raffle two after the break.

You have to be here, so don't go far. But if you do need to replenish your tea or Your water or whatever. Do that and then come back and then we'll announce the winners of the raffle and enjoy this sweet little video from our friends in the inner circle. All right, thank you, everybody. We'll be back. For me, the podcast is kind of like the marker. It's like, okay, here we are.

This is what we're thinking about. This is what we're talking about. And then you go into the inner circle and you get to go deeper. I love all of the exposure to the different astrologers. Just being able to learn from so many different people who have so many different ways of attacking the subjects. They really like the diversity in astrologers. Judith Hill, Gemini Brett, Christopher Renstrom, Gary Caton, Frank Clifford, Michael Bryan.

Getting the exposure has really helped me as a practicing astrologer myself. It's helped me hone how I give readings. I do love the astrology pulse. Like those texts I love. Oh yeah, there's that quick check in and reminder. Even though I have my own thoughts and my own take, it's just so valuable to hear what other people are saying. Having all those different, different voices makes me realize that my voice is valid too.

I'm super busy, like working mom, two kids, 12 and nine. And I'm constantly on the road driving them around, which is why I listen all the time. The mastery classes. Eats. Mastery class when I'm on tour. That is my. That's my food. Like food. Like, like soul food to me. These mastery classes. Taking notes, constantly playing around with charts. It's such great educational nutrition. And then there's the hugs that are the new moon ceremonies.

The new moon ceremonies. That is a non negotiable for me. It has to happen every cycle for me. Whether I can show up live or not. It's grounding. It gets me focused on what I want to be focused on. This year is my year to get out there and connect with as many other astrologers as I can. And seeing all those faces, seeing all those faces every moon.

People I may never meet in person, but absolutely adore from afar because I've been watching their stories. To be an inner circle member, just to feel belonging. I know it sounds romanticized, but. But for me, it's. It's not. I look for words to each podcast, each mastery class, each live because I know they will nourish me in a way that I cannot find from anywhere else. Thank you for creating this amazing platform.

I mean, this ohana is truly a great home. Okay, my friends, if you love the level of conversation we're having. If you want to learn how to read charts, if you want, want to be engaged in a community that is literally having these kind of conversations all year long, Very intimately, very engaged. The inner circle is something to consider astrology. Hub.com join now and lock in your 50% discount for life.

Okay. Also, if you have questions about the membership, put them in the chat. I'm going to hang out. There's going to be an after party. Yesterday we're going to. There was like a hundred of you who hung out for an hour after we were done. And we just talked story. We talked about the inner circle. You asked questions. It was so, so fun. I love doing that. So if you do want to hang out and ask your questions, you can.

So that'll be at the hour. All right, let's bring our astrologers back on screen. You guys are so on fire. It's really a lot of fun. All right, so let's. Now, Brett, we need to hear your story. What is the story of 2026? What are you calling it? And why? I'm gonna build up there by reflecting on some things that happened before the break and also during. I had to go, like, do some research about a thing that I had heard.

So I found an article that's scientific. Me too. So in the chat, people were saying it's not a Japanese word, it's a Chinese word. And the crisis and. And yes, it is danger and opportunity, but it's Chinese, not Japanese. So I'm sorry about that. But yes, go ahead. I love that you went for research too. I went in a different way. I was looking at. Found my way to the Scientific American paper that's entitled Surprising Genetic Evidence Shows Human Evolution in Recent Millennia.

Anyway, there's a statement that the new research raises the possibility that recent human history involved far more dynamic evolution than previously recognized, with repeated episodes of selection followed by reversals. It's a super interesting question that ancient DNA is opening back up. All right, so what do we do with that? Go play. And millennia isn't today. I will say that when you look at some of these times of great shift and also in the geological record, when I feel into this, there's a pain in our collective and individual souls from a time of great cataclysm, when our species was almost entirely eradicated.

And in one regard, it's manifesting through shadow and evil in the world. And in another regard, it really offers kind of the fuel for us to crack out of the program and wake up and open our eyes. And choose change before change chooses us, which is the way that we'll do this without such significant crisis. And I want to rewind to the idea. Well, two ideas. One, that this is an individual thing that's going to bring me to my song for the year.

But first, individually and collectively, I love this quote that just randomly came up from this paper, which is like looking back to the ancient, I feel that the Saturn Neptune cycle, I hope, wish for, intend to be part of in our own astrological community. This synod or this meeting of Saturn and Neptune, bringing the opportunity for bridges being built between the trends of modern and traditional astrology. There's been such, like, a great schism in the astrological community that tends to sound like you're either a modern psychological astrologer or you're an ancient fatalistic astrologer.

Now, many folks, I hope to be one of them. I know Adam's work well, and I really find that Adam shines brilliant light with kind of holding both of these spaces. I think it's important for us. You know, the way I like to say it is that, you know, be it the church or the modern church of scientism, astrology almost been completely burned away. And yet astrology is the poetic breath of nature, so it can't end, but it kind of had to be dreamed anew as we lost the ancient thread.

And I actually find that to be a great gift. So in the last centuries, this new astrology was born really out of the whispers from the dreams, you know, and the change in psychology and. And more. You know, these days when you learn about Scorpio, for example, you get this, a book where the ancients wrote sentences. You know, it's like it's really come to life. And I think that importance, and I kind of feel Neptune in this, of like dreaming in this vision of like a new astrology is beautiful.

And yet we've also kind of gotten disconnected from our roots. And, you know, my work, it's like, let's look back to the astro before the written word, you know, when it was really just the language of the marriage of heaven and earth, right? How do we see that astrology is not just some symbolic code, it's. It's how nature speaks. You know, how do we reconnect our astrology to the magic of the living sky and remember the roots of the rules and the proofs of these equations we use and also, like, not just throw them out because we feel like they're old or tired.

Right. So there, in a sense, was this divergence as many of the ancient texts were coming back online and being translated through the work of the likes of James Holden of Project Hindsight. Many of you will know about these folks. And it was really right on the heels. And Adam could speak to this more than I could of the last Saturn Neptune conjunction in Capricorn in 1989.

And I feel that this coming together now might offer this opportunity of bridges being built. It said in the tradition that the slower moving planet will dominate the second half of the cycle. So that would be between Saturn opposite Neptune and the conjunction and that the, that the slower moving planet, I think I said faster before, will dominate the first half of a cycle. And that's because it rises first.

So like Neptune will begin rising before for Saturn and the coming 18ish years between now and Saturn opposite Neptune. And it really feels to me like there's going to be this opportunity for personal. It's coming more from the Aries sign, but also collective dreaming that will end some of the divorce. I'd love to see between what we call astrology and astronomy. But I also think in a more kind of personal and collective and community like astrology level, I think there's going to be many more bridges or even like rivers built between the traditional and the modern approaches.

And that I think that's going to be actually the great fuel of a renaissance in our craft which has been happening. But I feel it's going to start happening maybe with more grace and to a greater effect. So I should have said that at the end because I would love to hear what Penny and Adam might say about that. But let me just say my feeling, you know, because it's again, you know, power to the people starts with power of the person, of you and you and you and you individually.

And I feel that the song for this year is at last the wind will come to fill your sails. So this is tied to the truth that tropical sign cusps are very real. And when planets, especially slow moving planets, cross them, we are experiencing significant opportunities for change, personally, culturally, collectively. And this of course has been like the sign of the times, right? Pluto moving from Capricorn to Aquarius, like committed there, right?

And then of course last year it was Neptune into Aries, Saturn into Aries, Uranus into Gemini. And then they hit the brakes and put it in reverse and jumped back across the cusp for some unfinished business in the previous signs from which they came, right? And so, you know, we've had Neptune back into Pisces, Saturn back into Pisces, Uranus back into Taurus, like a final encore from Taurus, which I think is great because we want an evolution.

And in the, in the, in the body, in the senses, this isn't just meant to be a mental thing, Right. But now with their coming, returns to the new stages that they're going to play on for some time.

Right? So we get Neptune having. Returning to Aries on January 26th, like now, right. And then Saturn on February 13th. Uranus returning to Gemini April 25th. Right. And all so significantly aligned with one another, which is rare.

And I know that Mark spoke to this at length yesterday. It's a really powerful thing to see this midpoint picture of the outer planets and that they're in a Ptolemaic aspect now. That's like a lot of technical talk. But many of you will be with me there. Like, it's a rare and beautiful and powerful thing and there is wind in our sails now. It's like there were ideas and maybe, you know, this is very personal too.

It's like, I'm gonna do this. Like, this is how I'm going to give my gift. This is the thing that, you know, is going to be my way for the next. I don't even know, but I'm going there, right? I'm going to commit. You can feel a lot of kind of Aries things. This is the mountain I'm climbing, right. And then it was like, oh, not ready yet.

Right. And so we're going backwards a bit. But now, as the signs, as the planets return to these signs, and especially I would suggest when Jupiter ENTERS Leo, that's June 29th of this year. And then in late July, when Jupiter from Leo opposes Pluto and Aquarius, Trines Neptune in Aries, Sextiles, Uranus and Gemini. And this is all like the same day days, right? It's like six months from now, like around July 20th, it's on, right.

And there is going to be this great wind. Now, that being said, and. And again, retrograding back to this very important thing that Adam shared, right. Take some time to sit. Take some time for stillness. Take some time to unwrap the gift of the present moment in silence. It's going to be more and more difficult to do because. And Gary really spoke to this yesterday, right. Like all of this Yang energy.

I want to read a thing I wrote so I can say it more efficiently. So it's this. That Chiron's first months in Taurus, another shift, right? So this is June 19th to July 17th will also be Activated by a square from Leo Jupiter on July 1st. We will be reminded, whether we like it or not, why our launch was delayed in the first place. For it is unwise to shale in a ship that is not quite seaworthy on one level.

Some yin sign energy also provided by the nodes until July 20th 6th. The lunar eclipses on March 3rd and August 28th and the 2026 Mercury, Venus and Mars cazimis will offer an imperative balance to the seemingly overabundance of air and fire. But we will also feel the need to find the medicine in the wounds that develop rapidly when the rat race commandments of our culture separate us from the grace of Earth's pace and the gift of beauty found only in the present moment.

Right. So this is something that we can do despite all odds, individually to assist the collective shifts, right? Being still being in our bodies. Remembering to dance, remembering the important truth that the human body comes with this weird thing called a heart. Remembering the importance of authentic experience and expression of our deep feelings. You know, the tears will be the reverse that lead us to the transcendent beauty of a new world.

Wouldn't it be beautiful if that could be true? So wind is coming, and this is good because it will propel us forward individually, culturally, collectively, and in a good way. You have a lot of free will to add to that puzzle, in my opinion and Gnosis. But I would also say this wind is going to be weird, right? Uranus coming into Gemini to Trine, Pluto, you know, we.

We experience the energy of their squares between 2012 and 2015. And some of the seed that Uranus revolution and Pluto evolution planted when they gathered together in 1965. Right? Thrice, right. Like that kind of collective opportunity for cultural change that was so heard in the music of those times and seen, you know, in the great revolutions that were happening. Like there was something of opportunity between 2012 and 2015, when Uranus and Pluto squared many times.

But squares ain't easy and sprouting ain't easy when the seed has to break through the soil and get exposed to the rains and the winds, you know, but it said that the wind will bend the stem so the plant can grow more strong. Like that's that happened and now we come into this trying time. So just invite you to see this in the smile of the Moon, right?

When the Moon is square, the sun, we have that really strange straight line in the face of such a curvy being. And then as the Moon moves further in her cycle and trines the sun, she gets her Groove back. She gets that, the curve back, right. So the gibbous moon shape in a way you can feel that, you know, can hold that in your arms. Like that's what's going to happen between Uranus and Pluto.

And there's grace and there's a new lift. We're kind of coming out in a sense of like a crisis moment that brought us from the regular world to the special world. And in a good way. It doesn't mean that like the challenge is over, but we have this beautiful wind in our sails. But it is a weird wind like Gemini where Uranus is moving into for this Trine Aquarius where Pluto is now.

They're free electron signs. They're different, you know, they're offerings of change and weird winds. And that's kind of further promoted from the truth. And this is rare that Pluto will be out of bounds at times this year. Those times this year are between August 12 and October 10. But Pluto will have periods out of bounds, meaning in this case south of the Tropic of Capricorn where the sun couldn't even dream to go.

Pluto will be out of bounds on and off through between now and the year of 2035. Pluto only goes out of bounds in Leo. So we can look back to that generation. They're very much on the world stage now and in Aquarius. And this is offering really an opportunity for us to bring this evolution into a free, open minded new way to do things. I want to just voice before we open this up, some of what was very importantly said in the chat during the break is, well, this very much feels like this AI revolution.

And many spoke to this as a kind of terrifying thing. It's, you know, very clear change that's going on and quite rapidly. Right. And some see this as a great tool that's inevitable. You know, when Anna, my partner, warns me about giving my baby Maya the phone during a change to keep her more safe still. Right. I might respond in justification of my ill behavior that she's going to have a robot when she's a teenager.

You know, like, how can we avoid the sign of the times? But you know, and it's, and it's interesting to me to see that it appeared that the AI kind of came for those things that people said it could never do. First it wanted to become an artist, a poet, a songwriter, and has done so with like, I think, surprising success. I think most of us would agree, even the philosophers.

I was listening to Alan Watts, who I love so much. He's a Teacher I will never meet last night. And after some point I was like, there's not enough of those wonderful high pitched English cackles in this transmission from Alan. I was like, that's not Alan. And I was right. It was an AI thing, right? And I was like, I'm good for knowing, but when do I not?

I was really deep into this jazz playlist last week and I was like, oh, no, it's like, it's not real. It's fake, right? Anyway, I was sitting with a friend that I met through the inner circle here at Astrology Hub recently, and I was speaking about this, and he said, yeah, you know what it will never do, though? The AI will never play the drums with my arms.

And I really appreciate it because. And I think this is important as well. How can we choose to really deeply embody our humanity, to offer presence and a balance at this time of surging technology, Right? How, if we're worried about the amount of water that the machine is drinking, can we before each of our own personal sips really feed that water and its crystalline structure with our gratitude and blessings?

You know what I'm saying? Like, this is what you and I can do in a collective, active level. We can sit each day, we can find silence. We can be with our friends and our family in a really deep way. We can be with each bite of our food and wonder where it's coming from and all those wonderful things. And like, you and your decisions and your heart and your word matters in a very significant way.

And being in that space, right? That is the way that we will each individually contribute to a time that I feel is one of great change. Penny, Adam, anything that you would like to say in reflection to what Brett just shared, I'll. I'll just say that I appreciated. I appreciated so much you talking about the, almost like interfaith dialogue of astrological eras, the ancient and the modern. Last year I had one of my friends, I think you probably know, you guys may know him, Ari.

Moshe Wolf. Oh, yeah. And I think he's. He's been an astrologer. He's worked for you guys and done stuff, right? He's an inner circle astrologer this year. That's what I thought. So Ari came on my YouTube channel and we had a series of dialogues, almost like an interfaith dialogue between evolutionary astrology and Hellenistic. And what we did was to kind of talk about some of the technical and methodical differences while talking about underlying spiritual and philosophical similarities.

And I know a lot of people really benefited on at least in my audience from those dialogues. And in fact I was just, I was just someone in the chat a little bit ago, I think mentioned Steven Forrest and maybe talking about Mars, Pluto, which I love that quote by the way. But anyway, I was, I was just, just recently had a, a brief chat with Stephen where we also exchanged just a nice little conversation about how important it is to support pluralism in astrology.

I feel like just piggybacking off from Gemini, Brett's transmission there that we're in a great time with Uranus, Trine, Pluto, two planets that when they get together like this in a Trine in air signs, you know, Aquarius, Gemini, a Hermes ruled sign, you know, can really weave a lot of things together. So I feel like this transit that those trines get me really excited for the field of astrology.

And I've been a part of just, I mean just as just kind of touching on the AI thing. I really appreciate what Patrick Watson is doing with his program Nechepso right now, which is trying to get out ahead and in conscious transparent dialogue with the astrological community and with practitioners about AI functions within astrological software. In his reasoning that he presented at NorWAC, which I really appreciated, he said there's going to be potentially predators who take advantage of our field unless we have people from within it trying to steward a conscious ethical use of this technology in astrology software.

What to speak of all the other stuff. But just like that particular use, like better that we try to design it and have conversations about what is the ethical way of having like an AI assisted search feature for transits or you know, like that kind of stuff. And one of the things that we. I had a chance to just get into more of a dialogue with Patrick and one of the things that it caused me to reflect on was as much as I am concerned about AI, which is a real.

There's real like legitimate, like this is the wild. Like it's. I think I jokingly said this to me. I can't remember who I said it to. I was like, AI to me feels like walking into the bar in Star wars with all the crazy creatures. Like this is a dangerous wild situation. Like what is this? And. And yet there's dude. Exactly. And so and I was like, I'm.

I'm just as. I just as much as I am worried about things like who controls it or how is it being used or how does it co op human creativity and all of those very legitimate questions, it also strikes me in the little bit of interacting that I've had with Chachi pt for example. It also strikes me as a very bizarre, almost like psychedelic mirror for human consciousness itself.

It's a very weird reflective medium that says a lot about us as a whole. And I, I am, I guess what I, I'm, you know, when the trines like this happen in the acceleration of the uses and implementations and the money around its development and who controls it can be accelerating so quickly, what bothers me is the potential, because of that level of things for us to jump to really extreme conclusions.

Well, this is the devil, or well, this is salvation. You know, like this is going to save us. This is gonna, this is the best thing ever, or this is the absolute worst thing ever. Both of which could easily happen and take us away from a nuanced opportunity not just to use it, but to look at ourselves through its existence. Which is quite different than asking how can I capitalize on this?

I'm interested on for, you know, for that reason too. Like, you know, I remember Terence McKenna talking a lot about the Internet before he died. And just the way he was thinking about the Internet wasn't just how do I use it, it was what is it? Why is it here at all? And that level of engagement I think is important for us to not rush past in terms of, of the way that it's being abused by people who have a lot of money or the way that it's being co-opting creativity.

Like again, we can kind of put that in a different bucket for different kind of conversation. I, I don't want to rush past this being like an existential omen to just sit with as well and reflect upon that it exists at all. Do you know what I mean? That exists at all and that it came into our awareness right now. Yeah, like there's a reason, there's, there's the timing of it, what it is, it all, it's all contributing to a very, very interesting reflection.

And I think I shared this on the podcast with you, Adam, that when we had Rick Levine on recently, he, he made the point, he said, did Uranus exist before we could see it? Did Neptune exist before we could see it? Yes. Right. And theoretically they were broadcasting information that we just weren't aware of to be able to pick up on at the time. But then we developed the technology to be able to see them and then their messages were able to come through even clearer.

Well, what if AI is the same way? What if it's always been there? We just didn't have the conduit or the technology to actually access it. We don't know. It's just an interesting thing to consider. We, you know, I'm so philosophically minded. I guess my thing is, like, let's not miss an opportunity for a very interesting form of like, meditating on a phenomenon rather than just like, is it good or bad, or what's its good use?

Or does it kill us creatively? Or like, that's all valid. I don't deny that. I'm not trying to bypass that at all. It's just like that level of it to me is also like, I don't want us to miss that opportunity because it's a little bit like meeting aliens, which I think we're all also maybe about to do. I don't know. Yeah, I think if we again go back in history and we see the Industrial revolution, which just changed everything, and the discovery of, well, splitting the atom, nuclear power, how, what good could come out of that, but also what destruction.

We're seeing the same thing in this great era that we are living through. And it is a great era, even if it is terrifying at the same time. AI, which has come to us seemingly so suddenly and has grown like, well, it's enormous. Its tentacles are in every aspect of life, from the arts, from device, from everywhere. And really, we have to embrace it, even if we don't know how it will evolve in a way that would similarly like nuclear power, also destroy us.

I think we have no choice but to embrace it. And I think astrology is right for that. And I just like what you said, Adam, about what Patrick Watson is doing. I think that's absolutely the way forward. We have to embrace this. We have to take it to expand our knowledge and experience and understanding, which I'm sure it can. I'm sure we can make giant leaps. And maybe that's something that, you know, we should also make very clear in this time that we are together.

That this is part of all this extraordinary time we're living in is. Is the opportunity it's giving us to really grow, learn, and advance in every strata of life. I was in college when the. When I became aware of the Internet. I remember my college offering an email address. And I was like, what's that? And why would I ever need that? I have no idea what you're talking about.

But when I did finally become aware of what it actually was, I remember making a very conscious choice. There was a moment where I said, yes, this could be used for good or bad, and I am going to use it for good. And I am going to flood it with light and love and use it as a conduit to spread more light and love in the world. And, and I think the same thing with AI we are really at that point again, these choice points, these.

It can go this way or that way. And where do you sit in that choice point? You sit right at the heart of it. And so this conscious engagement with the moment, it's, it's come up again and again. And it relates with AI just as much as everything else we've talked about. Brett, go ahead. First of all, thank you for staying true to your intention because you were very much utilizing the Internet to bring light and wisdom and gathering many souls together for that purpose.

And it's a reminder of like the World Wide Web being training wheels to help us realign to the truth of Indra's Net, so to speak. Right. Like, I always feel like email is just the, the warm up for heartmail, right, where we can just remember that we actually do have the capability of sending each other messages and even specific words, you know, and the wordless speech through the energies of the heart, whether we're in the same room or separated across the world or through time.

You know, there's an interesting thing bringing up what Rick said about Uranus, right? And was Uranus there before was seen? Well, so many look to William Herschel and Sister Carolyn in what, 1781 in Bath. But importantly, we were able to sort the planetary tables, the ephemerides for Uranus, like much faster than we would have been able to do through observation after that time alone. Because Uranus was seen by many, many ancient eyes.

I've been initiated. I've seen Uranus with my naked eye in the sky. I had to use like an iPhone to help me know which one of those dots out there. But that happened for me and that changed me. You know, I saw Neptune through a telescope and some believe Galileo did. But we have like ancient Chinese records of Uranus. They just thought this was a star that showed up and then was gone, right?

And it's just for me, as we kind of go back into the older recordings of the unknown ahead and this great gift of astrology which lets us explore Kairos, right, cyclical time and the wheels within the wheels, right? Like somebody just used an alien face emoji that came up and it floated above Adams from my point of view, right? And so if this is a time and we can maybe see this in this Uranus, Pluto, Trine and these interesting signs, right?

Where we are connected with species from other planets, from out there. We'll probably have an opportunity to see how this has been going on the whole time. Right. And that will inform, you know, the way that we meet. I'm very interested just personally and how much astrology I have learned through technology. Like the software updates and I say, what's that? And I start pushing buttons until I understand it and then I get to a place where I kind of validate it and then I start teaching it.

Right? Like that's happened so many times in my life. Life. Because I'm young at astrology, I didn't really come to astrology until we could push buttons and cast a chart. Though I do love to draw a chart with my hand as well, you know, or to just get outside and see the chart in the sky. Most importantly, it's amazing how quickly we can get to more advanced expressions of the art thanks to the technology.

And that's, you know, one of the great potentials of the AI if we do it right. And part of that commands a responsibility of honoring this as a child of humanities. So. But there's two diverging points of view, like is that true and should we be good stewards and good parents to this child that we have birthed or is it actually the next stage of our own evolution, which is the preferred thought form of the technocrats and such, you know, because if we do end up competing for water, who gets to win?

Right? Like, so there's plenty of scary stuff. Like I'm drinking a tea from the 1980s and at one point as Adam was sharing, I had a sip and I was just like, oh, I just like really centered in. It's like, wow, AI can't do that. It's not going to be able experience the spirit in this tea, like even if it learns how to drink, right? And it's really that, like that's what's going to keep us around because that's what makes the earth spin as far as I'm concerned, right?

But going back to the 80s, like I grew up on Terminator and stuff, right? So I have plenty of Scorpio joke fear about where this thing could go. And I know that open hearted folks like everybody here who is also interested in, in the beautiful waves that come through the prana and through the mind, right? Like there is a way for us to do this, right? So you don't yell at the robot vacuum, right?

You're, you're in alliance here and also, you know, with the, with the squirrels and the trees and anybody else that might come to visit. We're at a time of great change. And so to bring this back to the astrology, this is very important. Like Penny, as a mundane astrologer could tell us that, you know, in the old approach it was the Jupiter Saturn cycle, right before Uranus and Neptune and Pluto and others were discovered.

Like that was the long cycle, the 20 year cycle. And many, when they conjoined in Aquarius and December solstice, this in 2020 learn to see the greater epochs of Jupiter and Saturn, their elemental cycle, the 200 year cycle, the 800 year cycle that gets like bigger and bigger and more beautiful. We'll just know that as these planets are coming to the early degrees of Aries for Saturn and Neptune, of Gemini, for Uranus, of Pluto, right in Aquarius, like that point that Sinai, that meeting point of Jupiter and Saturn in 2020 is being reactivated, re stimulated.

And it really is a seat that reminds us that like yes, this is personal and collective, but this is a social thing. So I'm not saying it's not important for us to look at the world's lens, right? Although it can be difficult. And if it really sends you off, take a break, you know, recenter yourself and then get back in. Like not all of us are capable of that.

It's like a really important thing to honor. But also know that you're looking at that world through your eyes or you're receiving tales of it through a person's point of view. And that's going to be an important reminder about the AI as well, right? Like who built it? Right? And how are you experiencing it? What is your dialogue with it? How can you, through your questions and answers actually build a relationship that's more personal and staying in the heart as you do, that's the great gift that you will give.

That I think is actually in resistance to many who forget that this is truth. Okay, you guys, this has been amazing. We still have another raffle, so stick around. I want to hear your final thoughts, the things that you want to share in closing. Short and concise. But what do you want to send us away with? What message do you want to send us away with? And let's go with Penny first.

Well, I don't want to repeat myself because that's very boring, but it's still the same old hue. You know, this is a time of crisis, but it's a time of opportunity. That's the first thing to say. But I think the other thing is that we do have the resources to deal with it. And the whole point of being faced by our own personal dilemmas or the collective global events is that we dig deep to find those new resources.

And I mean, how many times in our own lives have we been stumped by a situation or we feared it may happen and think, if that happens, my life will be over, or whatever we say about those situations. And then the worst does happen. And guess what? We come up with something that we didn't know we had, that we thought of, and that's also something that we keep, that we retain.

So while it is quite scary in some ways, and yet at the same time, it's full of very exciting possibilities that we've all discussed here, the important thing to remember is that we can deal with it all. We can actually deal with it all. Penny, thank you for this. And I just have to say, everyone here is experiencing the fruit of a personal crisis that I went through 2012 to 2015, at least astrology hub was born out of a crisis 100% my own personal apocalypse.

Astrology hub was born from that. That crisis became an opportunity that we are all experiencing right now. So this is available to you in your own life as well. And I know many of you have lived through those things. So thank you for this. And I think we're all going to remember that the repetition of that point, Penny, is helpful because it's like, okay, when crisis appears to be happening, we all know that we have this opportunity.

Yeah. So why don't we get that Chinese symbol, which I will now research. Yes, exactly. Stick it on our fridge. Perfect. All right, Brett, what would you like to close us off with? I just heard, for some reason, I don't know, but a wonderful song by Apples and Stereo that I think is called Can You Feel It? So everybody look for that and listen and dance. Can you feel it?

So I'll share just two mantras that I speak to myself or loudly before every astrological consultation I offer or teaching or opportunity like this to connect and be a terrestrial narrator for the celestial conversation. And they are, first and foremost, the art of the chart starts in the heart. And I'm not here to bring this person to the light. I'm here to see the light in them. And I think this is an absolute key.

Those people that we might see as the demon, as the evil or whatever, right? Like, can we, by seeing the light in them, give them an opportunity in our own point of view to make the kind of turn that we're rooting for? And I think that's really important. And for me, that's the power of the people, and it's going to come through us. Learning to see the beauty, it's very difficult for me to do.

I'm not going to lie about that. But it's. It's really beautiful. In my work as an astrological, you know, doing readings, it's like, oh, well, this person might be so aligned with who I am. And then sometimes that's just kind of easier, but it's also easier to project, you know? And this person might feel like they're, like, coming from a totally different space. But again, if I can avoid this temptation to think I'm wise or right and bring them to the light, but rather to see the light in them, then, like, not only can I be a guide, but I can learn in the process.

And, you know, that's the key. Thank you. Thank you. All right. And Adam. Oops. Okay, there we go. Can you guys hear me? Yes. So, yeah, I'll just, I'll close with this thought. I had this dream recently. I live in Minneapolis, so the current events unfolding here have been really intense, and I, I had this dream where I was running through this kind of futuristic city, and I was seeking some kind of official building.

I don't know what it was, if it was a religious building or governmental. It was, like, someplace that I could turn myself in, because I could. I, I, I knew that there were people looking for paperwork. This is all, like, I'm clearly processing what's happening in my neighborhood in Minneapolis right now, you know, not that any of it's happening to me either. Right. But it's happening to a lot of the people here.

And I'm sure my. Some unconscious level, I was just processing this, and in the dream, I had no paperwork. But it was funny because in the dream, I had no paperwork to demonstrate that I was a human. I had no. I had no paperwork to demonstrate that I was a legitimate human being. And I was so scared. It was a Just this terrifying, like, nightmare. And I just wanted to.

All I wanted was to turn myself in and to say, look, I have no way of proving that I'm legitimate, that I'm legitimate or valid on the most basic level, on, like, a human level. And in the dream, I couldn't find someone, the proper authority to, like, confess to, you know, like, no, there. I couldn't find the right building or the right authority to confess that. I, I don't know if I'm valid or not.

I don't know if I have any more right to anything than anybody else. I don't have any form of legitimacy to prove anything about me. And anyway, and I woke up from the dream like this, not finding any resolution. And I was like. The first thing I thought is God. I've been taking in a lot of news here from Minneapolis. You know, this is where a lot of this is.

The immigration enforcement has been really brutal here, and there's been a lot of that going on. And. But if I think about Saturn, Neptune in Aries, and I think about those Buddhist monks walking, I think about the teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh, actually, our effectiveness, our real power in the world comes from that space. I don't know who I am. I'm a traveler. I'm in a human body.

I don't know where I'm going. I don't know why I'm here. I can't prove anything that makes me more valid than anybody else. Not really. But if we start from there and we actually practice inhabiting that space, it turns from fear to peace. And from that piece, a very strong tide of creative change can come into the world, I think. And so that dream's been with me, and I just thought it might.

Might be a good note to close on with respect to kind of my section of things today on the Saturn, Neptune conjunction. I don't know how we practice inhabiting that. Kind of like just emptying ourselves out, but then learning how to abide in that place and feel it, become an empowered, creative place, paradoxically. So I'll just. I'll leave my thoughts there. Adam, I have a bunch of evidence that you are a beautiful human should you ever need it.

We all do. Just. I'm gonna call you to witness in the trial. Oh, my gosh. You know what I have to say this. This dialogue, this back and forth, this organic interaction, this is human. And I know AI maybe could even take that over, but like, that. Just this beautiful sharing, supporting all the wisdom that you've poured forth. Thank you. It has been beautiful. It has been surprising.

It has been enriching. And that where you just ended, Adam, was a big theme of yesterday as well. This being okay with not knowing and what you're talking about. That creative space, that's the void. The void is the emptiness. And from that, everything is created. So this is really amazing. Thank you so much. We are going to do our final raffle, and then I'm going to hang out for the after party with anyone who has questions about the inner circle.

Who wants to hang out and ask those questions and have some more dialogue. So, okay, so we have two more raffle winners, and I forgot to do this yesterday, so this is my moment of redemption. All right, One free year in the inner circle. Two people are going to win this. This is worth $740 regular price. $370 right now, which, if you do the annual, you get two free months.

So that is a perk of doing the annual. And the first winner of this is. Brian Bartlett. As long as you're here, Brian. Brian Bartlett is the first winner of One Year in the Inner Circle and the second winner. And I think it's so adorable how supportive you all are of each other even if you don't win. I see the congratulations and yay. And everyone's celebrating, which is just beautiful to see.

The second winner of one free year in the Inner Circle is. Christina Testana. Christina, so thank you so much. Can't wait to see you in the Inner Circle and to travel with you for many, many months to come. Penny is going to be a teacher coming up soon. One of Gemini Brett's mastery classes is part of the bonus package for this month's promotion. Promotion. So you're going to get access to that.

Adam has been an Inner Circle teacher and hopefully will be an Inner Circle teacher with us again someday. And Brett wants to play us a song, doesn't he? Oh, I don't know how this. You know, I don't think it's going to sound okay. Over. Okay. Someday hear a beautiful song in your soul. Yes. And that's the one that matters most. Yes. Okay, everybody. My big wave surfers, now that we are complete, I hope that you feel like you have the information you need, the perspective, the guidance.

Give me one takeaway. What's your. What's the one thing again? I call them highlighter moments. What's the highlighter moment for you? That bright streak on the page of your life that you're going to take with you throughout the year as the waves continue to unfold and. And. And move. What are you going to hang on to? What's that? Anchor point. I'd love to see what you have in the chat.

We will be continuing this dialogue all year long, so, yes, you'll continue to hear it on the podcast. Yes. If you want to go even deeper and engage even more personally, you can do that in the Inner Circle. But we will be here for you for the whole year, for the whole ride. And I can't wait to surf these waves with you. So I will check those out.

And we're going to share this chat with the astrologers. Please continue to stay here if you have questions for me about the inner circle. Otherwise, you're amazing. Thank you so much for your curiosity, for your sincerity and for your beingness right here in this moment. It's epic. Thank you for being here. All right. And Gemini, Brett, Penny Thornton, Adam Ellenboss, you guys rock. That was so good. Thank you, thank you, thank you.

And I can't wait to see you again soon. You are free to go if you want. You can hang out if you want, but. All right, my friends, we'll let. Yes. Okay, so I'm going to check my little document here. If there's any questions about the inner circle, I am here to answer them. Yesterday, our after party went for an hour and it was super fun. So if you do have any questions, I can't wait to see them and answer them.

All right. Colleen is wondering, is there a coupon code to join the annual inner circle at the 50 off discount? Trying to join now for the year at 370. Will it stay that fee for life? Okay, so Colleen, you don't need a discount code. All the prices are set right now on the website. So when you go to astrologyhub.com join now, you are going to see the price, that is the promotional price.

And when you go to check out, it's going to be there. And you will lock in that promotional price as long as you stay a member. So, yes, it's going to say that fee for life for you when you join during a promotional period. Yes, Andrea or Andrea or Andrea. There's several different ways I could say it. Right. When is the next live in the ic? I just joined last night.

Yay. Welcome. Okay, so immediately you're going to get access to Rebecca Gordon's mastery class. You're going to get access to Rebecca Gordon's new moon forecast that we just had a few days ago. You're going to get access to the new moon ceremony that we just did a few days ago. The next live call, which, by the way, there's a beautiful calendar and you can click add to add to calendar all of the live events.

So that is very easy to do. But the next live call is going to be January 27th at 11am Pacific, 2pm Eastern. This is going to be your full moon teaching from Rebecca Gordon. So she is going to go over the major transits of the full moon and the major transits of the next two weeks after the full moon. And she is going to teach as she does this.

So you're going to get to learn why she is interpreting the aspects the way she is and also what to do with those aspects. So the inner circle is really designed to both learn astrology. So you're going to learn the technical aspects of astrology, but you're also going to get guidance on how to apply the astrology in your life so that you can continue living the best life that is yours to live while you're here.

And so you're going to learn about your chart, you're going to learn about astrology, and you're going to learn about the current moments. And last night, one of the questions that came up was, do you have to be an astrologer to benefit from the inner circle? And the answer is, absolutely not. Only 8% of the inner circle are practicing astrologers. Like they're seeing clients. Most of them are hobbyists who love it, who love to look at their own chart, who love to look at their friends and family's charts, but they don't consider themselves professional astrologers.

They're not charging money for it, but they just love it. So if that's you, this is a great place for you. You do not have to be a professional, and you don't have to aspire to be a professional to benefit from it. With that said, you might be surprised. We've had people come through that had no intention of becoming a professional astrologer, but because of what they learned and because of how fluent they got in the language, and because they fell in love with it more and more every single lunar cycle as we traveled together, they did end up becoming professional astrologers.

And as you heard from our astrologers tonight, the field of astrology is going to continue to blossom and continue to. To offer a lot to the world. And so having more skilled, amazing astrologers is a really good thing. All right, Siobhan, you're back. And the question is, are replays sent out after all the zoom calls or webinars in the inner circle? Yes. We never do events where we don't send out the replay.

Let me say that in a better way. We always send out the replay. So even for the two panels we just had, the replay is going to be sent out. It may be today, but probably tomorrow. And we aim to do that within 24 hours. And in the inner circle, it's always within 24 hours that you're going to get whatever live broadcast we do. Okay, Danielle, does the annual price have payment plan options?

Well, technically it would be the monthly price. So the annual, if you decided that you want to pay monthly instead is kind of like the payment plan. Does that make sense? And the perk with the annual though is that you do get two free months of membership. So it just depends. For some people, they want to come in monthly and that just works better for cash flow. Also, it gives you a chance to try the membership and you can try it for as long as you want and then you can end it whenever you want.

If you sign up for the annual and you get those two free months, you obviously can end your membership before it renews next year, but you would be essentially paying for the year. So does that make sense? I hope that answers your question. How do I sign up if I was a previous member? Same Paquita, you are going to go to astrologyhub.com join now, use the same email address as you did from your previous membership.

So I know that's always tricky for me. I have like three email addresses and sometimes I forget what I signed up with. But if you go back, you know, maybe you can search for your inner circle emails from the past and see who we sent those emails to then. Katie, why is that important? Why would that be important? Could Paquita use a different email address? Totally can. Just our system assigns classes to a specific username.

That's why we request that. But I can help out after sign up if needed. So if she wants to reach out to me@supportstrologyhub.com, we can make sure it's all aligned. That's supportstrologyhub.com so Paquita, if you can't remember your email address, just sign up and then we'll make sure that you get everything you need. Okay? All right. Julie is wondering where do I obtain the program from yesterday? We will send out a replay email soon, but if you are just chomping at the bit and you want it right now, you can go to astrologyhub.com forecastreplay forecast replay and that will have yesterday's broadcast as soon as it all renders and uploads and downloads and all that today will be also posted there. All right, Nicole is asking thanks for the great questions you guys. This is so fun. I love hanging out with you. Okay, so Nicole is saying who can I call to help me sign up for the ic? It knows I was a member before and says I need to log in but then it won't accept my information.

So Nicole, please, can you please email us@supportstrologyhub.com and we'll be happy to help you. And we can schedule a call with you if that is your preferred mode of communication. So again, that supportstrologyhub.com the team, my team, your team is amazing. They are here to help. They are, most of them previous inner circle members or still inner circle members, but they know what it's like to be a member and they're here to help.

And so just email us. We'll make sure we get you signed up. Okay. Helen's asking what is the bonus for joining during this webinar? Okay, Helen, great question. I'm glad you brought it back up. Katie, could we show the slide of the the bonus? So it's called the Health, wealth and Fulfillment Workshop series. It is taught by Judith Hill, Georgia Stathis, and Michael Bryan. And it is amazing.

So you're basically going to get three workshops in one. It's worth $297. So Michael Bryan taught finding fulfillment in your natal through your natal chart. Judith taught the 12 zodiac signs in medical astrology. And Georgia taught decoding your chart. Overcome your blocks to abundance. That's right. These are so good, you guys. So this, if you join before we close out here today, you will get access to this additional bonus.

Additionally, can you go back one slide? Katie, you will receive the. Oh, yes. You will receive these bonus mastery classes when you join anytime in January. So the Astrology of life chapters from Adam Summer from yesterday. He was. He was on yesterday, defining your Saturn lesson from Jennifer Racioppi, a really amazing class. And invisible planetary alignments. So you heard Brett talking about out of bounds tonight. That's one thing that he covers in that class.

What is that? What does it mean? So you are going to be getting access to all three of those immediately when you sign up. You're also going to get access to Rebecca Gordon, who is our current Inner circle astrologer teacher. You're going to get her mastery class on how to read a chart like you're looking at it as an ecosystem. And it's really brilliant. She uses the elemental makeup of your chart to understand your chart like its own ecosystem.

And this is how she reads charts. And our members are raving about this because it's a very simple but profound approach to chart reading. So, yes, that'll be available to you as well. Okay, more questions. All right, Jacqueline, will my current monthly cost continue as it is for this year and perhaps after that? Yes, Jacqueline, you will get your monthly membership for $37 a month. For as long as you stay a member.

So you will lock that in. Even if we change the prices next year and our promotional price went to $47 or $57, you would still be grandfathered in at 37. As long as you stay a member. Okay. Okay. Sharon, do you have to be Inner circle to do classes or get discounts? All right, so it depends on what classes you're talking about. Every lunar cycle, Inner Circle members receive a mastery class teaching from their guiding astrologer as part of the membership fee.

When we occasionally offer those mastery classes to the public outside of the membership, they're normally priced at $97, and sometimes they're never offered outside of the membership. So there are Inner Circle exclusive mastery classes. And no matter what the $37 price, that includes your mastery class and then all the other things of your membership, which, Katie, if you can put that slide up, that what the membership includes, it's a slamming deal.

Like, if you love our classes, if you love our teachers, $37. We don't ever offer that kind of pricing outside of the membership. Okay. To get discounts. So Inner Circle members also receive 20% discounts on the occasional big courses that we offer outside of the membership. So once in a while we were, we will offer like a three week course or a five week course or a seven week course.

Those for those inner circle members get 20% off. In addition, if there's a mastery class that happened before you came a member that you want to get access to, you can also get those for 20% off. So I hope that answers your question, Sharon. Inner circle members definitely get a cornucopia of opportunities to receive these classes at the very, very, very, very best prices. Plus they get access to classes that nobody else gets access to.

So. All right. Carmelina, do you partner with more than astrologists? I am a channel. I have the ability to talk to planets. I love that it's an actual Q and A conversation. I remember you saying that it would be great to discover their personalities in the inner Circle. We mainly have astrologers teaching astrology, chart reading, astrological techniques, astrological forecasting. But, Carmelina, that could be a really interesting podcast conversation.

Or we do our quarterly community events where we're bringing in lots of different aspects of astrology. And so sometimes things like that can be really amazing and relevant. So why don't you email us@supportstrologyhub.com and maybe send us a link to your website or any YouTube videos that you've done or your social media channels. So we can check it out and see if there could be a good fit there.

Okay. All right. Where on the website can I find the Inner Circle calendar? All right, so, Beth, this is a great question. Katie, do we have it on the actual astrologyhub.com joinnow page? Can they see it there? Not quite yet. We're working on it right now. Oh, okay. All right, so that's coming. But in the meantime, you can. If you. Are you a member already, Beth, if you are a member, then you can go to your learning portal, and under events, you're gonna see the calendar.

Okay, so let us know if you're not a member yet. What can they do, Katie, to get. Can they see that calendar somehow? I can definitely help them out. Just one on one. And then we will. We are working with our technical consultants and build that out on our website so it's super easy to access. So it's. It's in the works. Okay. Yay. All right. Okay, Jacqueline. Great program, Amanda.

Yay. I'm glad you liked it. It. I've been a member of the Inner Circle for several years. Will my current monthly cost continue as it is for this year and perhaps after that? Yes. Thank you for bringing that up. Current Inner Circle members, you don't have to do anything. This isn't like a renewal period, like with our healthcare and things like that, where you actually have to do anything.

It will just continue until you indicate that you don't want anymore, which you can do at any time. So, yes, Jacqueline, you are going to continue as is. Danielle, when does the promo price end? It ends January 31st. If you want access to that health, wealth and fulfillment bonus series, that is going to go away, like, as soon as we're done talking. So if you want that. That $300 bonus, definitely take action as soon as you can.

If you don't care about that or for whatever reason you need to take your time, you do have until January 31st. Can I switch to Annual after I sign up for the monthly with the promo price? If, for example, in two months I want to switch to annual when I can pay for it? Yes. Love this question. Thank you for asking. I often forget to talk about it, but yes, when you join monthly and you join during a promotional period, like right now, you can tell us in two months that you want to upgrade to Annual, and we will honor the promotional pricing for the annual price when you decide to do that.

So, yes, you can. Annie, once we're in our learning portal, do we just choose whatever looks interesting? Or is there a better way? So it depends on how you are. Annie, what I would suggest as a great starting point is our featured section. So there you're going to see a featured section, and that's going to give you the most timely things. So you're going to get Rebecca Gordon's new moon forecast that she just did.

You're going to get our ceremony we just did a few days ago. You're going to get our most recent mastery class. But then there's a lot of amazing bonuses that you'll get access to as well. So if something tickles your fancy, like, for example, the Inner Circle starter kit, that has some chart reading, foundational classes in it, it has how to use some of the astrological softwares or online tools, so you can start to, like, learn how to look things up that's included in that starter kit.

So there are different things available to you, but you can start with the featured section and then. And then play around and. And we really want it to feel like your new home. And you know how when you move into a new home, it, like, takes a little bit to start to feel comfortable and to find out the little areas that you love. So it'll take a little time to get oriented.

We are going to be doing an orientation, too, right, Katie? Katie? My orientation, yes. We're going to schedule a couple of calls when you can connect with myself and Laura. We're going to show you the learning portal, Mighty Networks, kind of the. The behind the scenes of how you can navigate your membership. Okay. Awesome. Are there any friends that I can name right now, Laura or Katie? I would love to welcome you officially into the Inner circle.

Okay, let's go, Lisa. Ooh. Will chat be included in the transcript sent out? Are you talking about chat from this event or are you talking about chat from the Inner circle events? And I think the answer is the same either way. But I'm just curious. And the transcript from the chat for the two days, are we including the link of that on the replay page? Katie? Yes, the links to the transcript will be on the replay page.

And also once you become an Inner Circle member, it'll be in your learning portal as well. Yes. Okay. And we know that there's people who learn different ways, and for some, the transcripts are just so valuable. So in the Inner Circle, you will get transcripts of all of the live events. If there's things you want to go through and with your highlighter and study things, you'll have access to that.

All right. Okay. Siobhan. So signing up for the annual now would get 14 months membership from now. I think the way that it works, Siobhan, is that you are getting the next 12 months of the inner circle for $370 instead of, instead of $444. My daughters make so much fun of me for having this calculator. They're like, gosh, that's so old school, mom. But I love it. I love the old school calculator.

Anyways, instead of $444, you're getting it for $370. So you're getting, you're basically paying for 10 months, but getting 12. Does that make sense? Okay, Andrea. Am I saying your name right? Andrea. Andrea. How do I access the starter kit? Or is that all the classes and videos I now have access to? Okay, all of the bonuses and classes that are available to you are in your learning portal.

You can go to portal.astrologyhub.com if you've already joined and you set up your, your username and password, you can go to Portal Astrology Hub, portal.astrologyhub.com and all of the bonuses and classes that are available to you during this promotional period are already seeded in there for you. So you can go and start perusing and you can go way down the rabbit hole. Annie, are all professional astrologers certified by an organization?

No. Some are, some aren't. And it's a really interesting conversation happening within the astrological community because there are some that are saying we need more rigorous standards. And there are others saying, well, not everybody comes to astrology the same way and teaches the same way and, and remembers the language the same way. And also, like, we're already kind of past that point of being able to have, like, centralized bodies dictating who is and who is not worthy of practicing.

So we have our own standards within the Inner circle, and we are looking for people with many years experience teaching astrology, not just practicing astrology, but actually teaching. Because there are some great astrologers that you, you could go to that would give you an amazing reading. But they might not teach. You know, they might not be teachers or they might not be teachers yet. So we make sure that they have many years of a track record of teaching.

We make sure that they are astrologers that really embody the Inner Circle way, which is, and I've mentioned this before, a real integration of the mind and the heart, the body, the physical, tangible, technical, but also the spirit and the intangible. The Inner Circle was designed always to really be integrative in that way. There are some schools that are really amazing for like the straight up academic, very technical approach.

And there is absolutely a place for those schools. I think it's probably because of the way that I came into astrology where it was, I was going to these new and full moon circles, women's circles, and there was an astrologer there who was teaching us about the archetypes and then we were walking with the archetypes in our lives and we were coming together in community and sharing about our experiences.

So if it was a new moon in leo, for example, we were walking with the LEO archetype in our life and we were experiencing it and there were practices we were doing to embody LEO more fully and then we were sharing in community and so we were learning, sharing, experiencing, all at the same time. And the inner circle is really designed for that. So each teacher that you have is going to give you the technical breakdown of the energies that were exploring.

And then also they're going to give you things like the song of the lunar cycle, they're going to give you embodiment practices. So if you are the kind of person that wants to like tangibly feel it in your body, you're going to have guidance on, on how to do that. And then we're sharing in community. So it's, it's a very heart centered community. And if you're like that, if you love that, that's not for everybody, but if it's for you, then this is a great place.

We also make sure that the astrologers we work with are very professional and do what they say they're going to do and show up and show up full heartedly and are really great to work with. And so that's why when you have these two, these two days of panel events, you're seeing like very lovely humans who are also great astrologers and great teachers. And that's the kind of people that we're looking for.

And we've Learned this through 7 years of running this program. There's like these sweet spot astrologers and then they just really work well with our community as well. Okay, Katie, can you help me with Jody's question? If you can just put the, your answer in there, that would help me. Okay, so Allie is wondering, I was wanting to know for the half off paying 3003700 for life, what is all you receive?

So we have put together a beautiful PDF for you if you're interested in the lifetime membership, you are getting access to every mastery class that has ever been taught in the Inner Circle. So this is like seven years of mastery classes. And the mastery classes that were taught in the beginning are just as powerful and potent and relevant as the mastery classes being taught today. So if you're the kind of person who's like, I want to dive all in, I want access to all these classes, and I want to have access to these classes for life, then the and you're in a position to do so.

The Lifetime membership is amazing. It's normally $7,400, and you would be getting, getting it right now for 3, 700. So we have put the link to the PDF in the chat. We will also put the link to the PDF under this replay video if you're watching the recording. And ideally, Katie, we'd also put the link to that PDF on the page astrologyhub.com joinnow so anybody considering that can see see what you get.

And then you also get everything going forward. So all of the classes, all of the forecasts, all the ceremonies, the cosmic pulse, text updates, the all of that you get going forward. Okay? Okay. All right. So Jody is asking, do you still have access to paid classes if you are no longer an IC member? So, Jodi, the answer to that is yes. The classes that you experienced while you were a member, you will get to retain those even when your membership is over.

And you will obviously get any classes that you've ever bought outside of the Inner Circle. So, yes, you'll have access to those. What you will no longer have access to is the live teachings, the live events, and any mastery classes going forward. So you won't have access to the live New and Full Moon Teachings. You won't have access to the Daily Cosmic Pulse, the private community forum, and the New Moon ceremonies, but you will have access to those master classes that you got when you were a member.

Okay, Abby, if I rejoin now and later want to upgrade to Lifetime, yes, you can do that, too. So you can upgrade, you can downgrade, you can go through different levels depending on where you're at financially. So yes, Abby, you can do that when you're in a position to do, do so. Okay, I want to mention to those of you who are new members, you can favorite, like, you know, click a little button and favorite your favorite classes so they show up at the top of your library in the learning portal.

So if you're like me, I mean, I wish YouTube had this. Does it? I don't think I've never seen it where you can, like, Create a library of your favorite videos. You're going to be able to do that in the learning portal. And you can favorite your favorite classes, you can revisit them, and that just makes it easy to organize. And that's a newer feature that we have, which is really cool.

Okay, new members, I want to welcome you officially by name. Sandra, Karine, Lance, Kelly, Van Sharon, Cynthia, Derice, Pamela, Madhavi, Laiudmila, Kristen, Mary, Kay, Kirsten, Susie, Heather, Nathan, Ashley, Angie, Annie, Kelly, Jerry, Lucinda, Maureen, Lee, Ashley, Amy, Ann, Madeline, Rebecca, and Siobhan. I think that's the name coming through. Welcome to the inner circle. It really is a beautiful place. We. It's. It's. I always think of it as kind of like the heart of astrology hub.

So as a podcast Listener, as a YouTube subscriber, you are absolutely a part of our star family. You are feeling the pulse of the community. You are a part of it. And when you enter the inner circle, it's like you're coming into the heart. You're coming into that temple. And it's ohana, which means family in Hawaiian, but it also means anyone who comes together and shares breath. And this is what we do cyclically at every new moon.

We are coming together. We are sharing breath. We are creating our intentions. We are learning about the astrology. We are learning about ourselves. We're learning how to speak this language and practice speaking this language. And I just. I love sharing it. It's such a joy. It is literally a consistent, joyful home for me and for thousands of members. And so we're very happy to welcome you into are Ohana.

Madeline. Your. My daughter's name, Madeline, and my mother's name, Madeline. And. And we spelled the same way. So beautiful. Okay, any other questions, you guys? Dora, then. Dora's asking. Joining today. We already get the January mastery class and the answer is yes, you do. It's already in your portal and ready for you. You can, like, spend time this weekend just immersing yourself in Rebecca's teaching. I think you're gonna love it, but you already have it, so.

All right. Any other questions, comments, concerns? I love hanging out with you guys. We are going to be doing. Speaking of. So we did the solstice intention setting 12 days of solstice around in December, December into January. And because, well, there's several things. One, the rise of technology and AI like we were talking about for me has made me crave human connection even more. Community connection even more.

Even if it's over zoom. But like the fact that it's live, that it's real, that it's organic, that you kind of don't know what's going to happen. I mean, with every live event we do, there's always this, like, element of unknown, an element of surprise, an element of, like, we couldn't have planned that, but it ended up perfect. Right? So we're going to be doing. I always do this.

This. Because this is the cross, right? This is the Capricorn solstice, the Cancer solstice. And then we have the Libra and the Aries equinox. To me, that's like the infrastructure of the universe. And we are going to be gathering at every solstice and every equinox, and we'll be doing activities together that are perfectly aligned with the energy of solstice and equinox. So the 12 days of solstice intention setting that we did in December is an example of that.

We're going to be doing that every year. And then the Aries equinox coming up is going to be the time of year which we have been doing for, like, the last three years, where we will be coming together in community and doing our treasure maps, our vision boards, and there will be a whole community experience, experience around that. And then in the Cancer solstice, we're going to be doing a whole thing around Embodiment.

There will be lots of really cool things, including dance, including yoga, including actually bringing these. These archetypal energies into our body. And then I don't know yet for the Libra equinox, but something else, and probably about, you know, finding that balance and letting go of weight that you need to let go of and calling in more of what you're wanting to call in your life. But there will be elements of those community gatherings that are both recorded and some parts of it that are live so that we get to come together and hang out.

Because you heard Adam and Penny and Brett talk about making these, you know, the podcast and all the different things that we do. It's. It's pretty solitary. You know, it's kind of solo. And so to have these live events is just such a gift for all of us. So thank you for being here. All right. It's my long winded way of saying thank you, Linda. Yay. I also just joined and would love guidance on the basics to set a foundation for my learning.

Okay, Linda, you are going to go right to the starter kit. Katie, can you tell us again exactly where that is so Linda can find it? But I think it's in your bonuses, but go and. Is that right, Katie? Yes. It's in your learning portal. So portal.astrologyhub.com you're going to see it next to all of your classes. Or you can use the search bar to search for that starter kit as well.

Yay, Deb. Welcome. All right, you guys, just a few more minutes. I don't even know how many more minutes, but then we'll be doing away with the $300 health, wealth, and fulfillment live call bonus that we have. It's still a slamming deal. It's still an amazing deal. So if you can't pull it off right now, that's okay. But if you want it, like, definitely grab it now. Okay.

Colleen, you're in. Amazing. And Linda, I'm just in there now. Thank you. Yay. Oh, my gosh, you guys. Fantastic. Okay, anything else? Any other questions? Any other comments? Any other. Anything that's on your heart, I would love to talk with you more. We're still live. We are still live. Stay well and be safe, everyone. Yes, Deb. Thank you. So sweet. Okay, well. Okay, if I signed up last night, Cindy, if I signed up last night, do I still get the health wealth bonus?

Yes, you do, Cindy. You should have it already. So take a little time to orient yourself. Remember, you're moving into a new home. You need to, like, go explore the little rooms in the living room and where you, like, where the light comes in and where you want to set up to read your books and do your studies and all that. Just take a little time to orient yourself with your learning portal, and you will find your health, wealth, and fulfillment class under the bonuses, I believe.

Okay. Yay, Abby. Glad to have you back. Oh, my goodness. You are like you. You were one of our founding members, I believe. Were you? I feel like you've been around the inner circle for a long time. It's so amazing to have you back. That's the thing, too, you guys. This community is here for you. Sometimes life happens and you get pulled in other directions or something happens where you just.

You need to step away for a while. That's okay. We're here. We will welcome you back with open arms whenever you're ready to come back. So, yeah, that's just. I love that, Abby, that you're back and. Okay, you have to go now, Christina. I mean, we've been here for three hours, so I can totally understand. I do have to go now, but thank you, everyone, for today and Amanda and the astrology hub team.

Thank you for granting me the Opportunity to experience the inner circle all. You're so welcome. We're so grateful to be able to provide the space for learning and growing and evolving and realizing how rare and beautiful you are and this life is and this opportunity is, and the amazingness of the universe and the fact that we're even here, it's like, what? It's crazy. So this just gives you this opportunity to continue to be reminded of that awe, you know, and just the delight of life itself and your unique constellation of stars within you that is so unique to you.

It is as rare and mathematically never going to happen again as your fingerprints. Like that alone, it's mind blowing. And so just having that consistent reminder of wow, like this is pretty amazing. No matter what's happening in the world, it's just epic that you are here and you are alive. Okay. Okay. Let's see. You're welcome, everyone. We're so. Oh, Rebecca, welcome. Welcome to the inner circle. Okay, I'm that my screen is actually far away.

I need to get one of those big monitors because I'm trying to see the questions, but I'm not. I'm not seeing them. Okay. Oh, Andrea, if I wasn't all. If I was already an IC annual member and went to lifetime, do I get free health wealth bonus? Yes, you do. Like, if you can do it, this is. It is an amazing value. So if you're in a position to do it and you want that just amazing list and experience of all these mastery classes we've done through time, there are some serious gems in there.

It's like a treasure trove. So if you can do it. Yes. And you will get that health wealth bonus also. Lisa, where do I go to sign up for monthly? You go. Everyone goes to the same place. So when, when you go to this link, you are going to be given the option to sign up for monthly, annual or lifetime. You go to astrologyhub.com join now. We will also put that link in the chat, but astrologyhub.com join now. Lisa. Okay. Any other questions, comments, thoughts? Let's see. All right. I feel like doing a little, like, song. Like I'm thinking of. What is it? Jeopardy. The one that goes where, like, the time is going. I think it's Jeopardy. Ally, I'm glad you're having fun. I'm so glad you guys are having fun. It's showing up as 74amonth on my page says Kate. Hmm. That is incorrect.

So are you saying, like, when you click on the link on the website and you Go to the checkout page. You're seeing $74 there because you should see 37. So. Ah, okay. Kate. Okay, maybe go to try astrologyhub.com inner circle. Could that be like a cash issue? Katie? No. I wonder if we might have an old link lingering somewhere. So all of the new links that we're talking about now, the join now and the inner circle will lead to the correct 50% off.

So as long as they follow those links, it should work. But if they run into any trouble, supportstrologyup.com and we'll definitely get to their question as soon as possible. Lisa said, I grabbed a link out of this chat, so I am sorry you're seeing that. That is. Ah, okay. Oh. Oh, Kate, she cracked the code. She says I just had join, not join now. Great catch for us.

Thank you, Kate. That means if you go to astrologyhub.com join you're going to see 74. But if you go to astrologyhub.com Join now, you're going to see the 37 price. So join now. And we should go, you guys, we should go to that join page and make sure that that's updated there too, because I can see how you would make that very understandable mistake. All right, good. It's very confusing.

I also go 74 on the learning portal. Oh, no. Yeah, we can definitely look into that and check it out just to make sure that everything is okay. But just to make sure that you sign up at the right price, reach out to us@supportstrologyup.com we'll make sure you don't get charged that $74. Okay. Yeah. And. Or grab the link that is in this chat, put that into your URL, and that should do it.

Bernita said that's what I did yesterday too. Okay. Okay. So Sandra, when you subscribe to calendar, does it enter all the classes? And will it enter classes, future classes that aren't yet scheduled? Well, it will add anything that is already scheduled, which we are scheduled out like months in advance. But if, if there's a few this year that are still being scheduled, so those won't be on yet.

Katie, this is a technical question I don't know the answer to. When we add them to the calendar, will they automatically be added to their calendars too? Yes, if they subscribe from the learning portal. So when you log into your learning portal, in the menu, you're going to see an event setting tab. There's several calendar options that you can subscribe to and it's kind of automatically linked so that future dates that we add will just populate into your calendars.

Okay, Dora needs some help saying she's trying to pay with PayPal. So, Dora, what would you say to Dora, Katie? Dora, if you're seeing that zip code issue, it's usually a cache or browser issue, like, you know, the cookies cache problem. So if you have an option to try a different browser or even clear your cache, that usually solves it 100 of the time. Okay, Sandy? Got it.

Okay, and what was the name of the bonus again? It's called the Health, wealth, and fulfillment workshop series. So this again was taught by Judith Hill, she does the health portion. Georgia Stathis, she does the wealth section. And Michael Bryant, who does the fulfillment section. So this is your bonus that if you join before I stop singing, which I won't, I will not torture you with, you will get access to that free workshop.

Oh, well, it's not free. It's $297. But you'll get it for free. Okay. All right. So, Siobhan, my receipt has come through, but I didn't see those goodies in my membership portal. What could that be, Katie? Yeah, we'll definitely need to take a look at Siobhan's account. The best way is, Siobhan, if you can email us the email that you signed up with. So just reach out, support Astrology up dot com.

What we'll take a look at is your profile is tied to your email. I'll just make sure that everything is checking out correctly. Okay, and then how. So how do we get that Health wealth bonus? That's 297. How do we get it for free? If you join the membership before we end this broadcast, you are going to automatically get it for free. It will be already loaded. It will be seeded in your membership, your learning portal, so you'll have it there and you will be able to watch it and experience it whenever you want.

Okay, you already joined, so it should be there. It should be there. Okay, Frankie. Saying I joined, but it is not in there. Katie. We'll take a look at your accounts, everybody. We're noting down all of your questions, so don't worry. We'll make sure that you receive it and you don't have to pay anything extra. It could just be a slight technical glitch right now, but we just need to dig into it a little bit.

Okay, so we'll take care of you should they check back in, like, later today or tomorrow. Katie, the best way is to just make sure that they've sent us at least one email to supportrologyup.com that way we don't miss them. But I also have this chat log as well that we're going to look through and make sure that we reach out. Okay. All right, we'll take care of you.

This team is amazing. They were members. They know what it's like to be a member. They know that, like, when you have something you want to watch, you want to watch it right now. So they will make sure that you're taken care of and we'll do our best. And then we have an incredible technical support. Stan, he's a superhero. He's a technical superhero. And so he's supporting us and always making sure that the technology is working.

And as we know, sometimes technology doesn't work, but we are on it and we will make sure you're taken care of. Okay. Okay, good. We're seeing who doesn't have access to it. Are there any other questions? I'm so excited all of you are in the membership. It's going to be so much fun. Will be. I am often in our Mighty Networks community. This is our inner circle community.

We're not on Facebook. We're on a platform called Mighty Networks. And this is where you're gonna see your guiding astrologers. Where I am in there a lot. Our members are talking and asking questions. If you're the kind of person who likes that, if you don't like that, you don't have to worry about it. But a lot of people like to connect and share, and so that is available to you.

And I love to connect with all of you in there. And I love to connect with you at the new moon ceremonies. That is like a very sacred ritual that we share together in the inner circle every single month. Okay, any other questions? When we're not in the portal, will we get emails or texts letting us know of upcoming events? For sure, yes. Because if you're like me, I need those reminders.

Like, I definitely rely on the email reminders. And yes, you will get those, Laura. If there's anyone else that I've missed to welcome. You will get emails. Do we send texts for, like, the live events? You guys, we're really careful. We're really careful about your. Your text messages. You're going to get the daily cosmic pulse, if you want it, that that tells you the most important transit of the day.

And then with some guidance on how to work with it, if you want that that's included in your inner circle membership. But, like, as far as promotional texts go, we're very mindful of the, like, sacredness of the text message space. So we try not to bombard you with things. But do we send like the live now or something? Katie? Not right now. Those come through email. Okay. Something we can look into if members are okay with us texting them.

Those. Yeah, I mean, if you want it. So that would be the kind of thing where we would survey the community and see how many for how many people. That would be helpful. So, yeah, that's something to consider. Text would be great. So. Cindy. Yeah, I know. Sometimes we're not looking at our emails as much. Right. Okay. Well. Aw, thanks, Beth. Beth says she loves the picture of my parents with my book.

I know, they're so. They're so sweet and supportive. Any of you who want. You probably know I'm on a. A book journey and the book, I believe, is going to be out in March, April, we'll see. But I do have a behind the scenes crew that I'm in communication with every week or every week and a half. And I'm keeping them up to date on the whole creative process and telling stories of the things I'm learning and equating it with the astrology and sending pictures of my parents with the books.

But if you do want to hang out behind the scenes and learn more about the book and be a part of the process, I sometimes ask questions like, should we do this or that? What do you guys think? You can sign up for that@lifebythestars.com so that's lifebythestars.com and when you do that, you'll also get a chapter sneak peek so you can get a sense for what the book is about, which I am so excited to share it with you.

And I was sharing with people that I thought, of course we make these plans and God is laughing. I thought the book was going to be published in 2025 because I thought of it as the ending of a very huge Pluto portal that I went through. And so I thought it was kind of like wrapping it up with a bow and like putting a period at the end of the sentence or an exclamation point point.

But it absolutely wants to be born after February 20, after the Saturn Neptune conjunction. It's very much the beginning of a story and I was thinking of it as the end of a story. So lots of different things conspired for this timeline to work out the way it did, but it is definitely going to be a birth. So I am really excited to share that with you all.

And it is a story. It reads like fiction, although it is nonfiction. And Natasha Alter, who was the astrologer who gave me my very first reading, she provides an astrological commentary. We're calling them astrologer's notes throughout the book. So you'll get to, like, learn the astrology and learn about astrology as you're reading my story. So I think it's going to be really awesome and it'll be out soon.

So lifebythestars.com if you want to hang out behind the scenes until that somewhat elusive but it's starting to crystallize public publication date. All right. Yay, Ali. Amazing. Okay, any other questions? Thank you, Ali. So sweet. The support from this community is the best. Okay, well, I think we're gonna wrap it up. Everybody who's in, who wants to be in while we're live, do it now. If not, you still have until January 31st to get into the membership at the promotional price and to get those other three bonuses.

So it's still a great deal. All right. So much love to you. Thank you for hanging out. Thank you for being a part of our community. Thank you for tuning into the podcast. Thank you for just being the beautiful star family that you are. And I can't wait for more. So take care, everybody. If you do have more questions, email us supportstrologyhub.com we will take care of you.

And take care. Have a wonderful, wonderful rest of your day and we'll see you soon.
