

All right, everybody, welcome. It is so, so, so good to be here with all of you. So happy you've joined us. Thank you. This is our mid year solstice panel event. We haven't actually done this event in over three years. We used to always do a mid year check in. But the astrology this year has is we're in such a changing landscape and we are actually in the midst of it.

So we wanted to make sure and offer you this additional forecast panel this year and maybe we'll just bring it back again every year. But I'm just so glad you're here. Thank you for everybody for checking in in the chat, letting us know where you're calling in from. I'd also love to know what drew you to this event. And you may know the answer to that and you may not, but if you can just put anything in the chat that just why you're here, what you're hoping to get out of this panel event.

So we have three amazing astrologers who are here with us today. They're ready to give you some masterful guidance as I saw in the chat. And we're going to get to them in just a minute. But I first want to introduce myself for any of you who are new to Astrology Hub, new to these panels. My name is Amanda Walsh. I am the founder of Astrology Hub. And one of the things I love to do the most as the quote unquote master of ceremonies at Astrology Hub is to really remind us of why we're here, what we're doing.

Why do we take time out of our very busy lives to tune into the cosmic broadcast? I mean, most people in the world are not doing that right now, but you are, you're here. Why do we tune into the cosmic weather, the energetic tides, the energetic waves? And you may have your own answer for that, and I'm sure you do, but for me it comes down to one word.

And that word is consider. Consider. And Adam Gainsbourg, who's actually one of our astrologers here tonight or today, turned me on to the words that have sidere in them because that actually means stars. So consider means to be with the stars. And it's a very ordinary word in our language, right. But it has very astrological, cosmic, universal roots. And what it originally meant is to observe the stars carefully, to look to the stars for guidance, to study the celestial signs that before making decisions.

And this was a normal part of life in across the world, in all cult, in all cultures until very recently. And really Just mainly in the west, it has, we've become disassociated from that. So this is really looking for direction and guidance via the stars. So we have three incredible, masterful astrologers here with us to help us do that. They are truly masterful, they are truly some of the best astrologers in the world at this craft and they will open the door for your understanding and your consideration.

However, I want to encourage you to let this be just that, a door opening. Rick Levine always talks about how the solstices and equinoxes are hinge points. They are actually doors opening to new chapters in our lives, new seasons in our lives. And so today we are offering you this opportunity to walk through that door at this cancer solstice and come into an even closer relationship to the stars themselves.

And this is a very personal thing, right? You're going to get information, you're going to get understanding, you're going to get interpretation from the astrologers here today. And eventually it's about finding your direction in the stars, a direct transmission that is available to you now and always has been so you can take the stars into consideration as you move forward in time. And I do hope this is a living, breathing, organic experience for you.

So something that we started at the last forecast panel that we did in January is that we asked the astrologers, if you had to look at the energy of the year ahead and name it as a song or name it as a book, what would you name it? And this was so much fun that we decided to bring it back. And so the astrologers here are prepared to introduce the song or the book that encapsulates the, the next part of the year, the, the last part of 2026, and really from the solstice to the solstice.

So over the course of the next few hours, it's going to be two hours, you're going to receive three installments that will help you understand this overall story of this part of the year or the musical piece that we'll be living in. So we also know that seeing things chronologically, you know what's going to happen in July, August, September, October, what's going to happen from an astrological transit perspective.

We know that that's also helpful. So we did create the mid year Astrology Transit Guide. You received this for free when you joined this event. If you're like, what is she talking about? I didn't get mine. You can go back to the email that you received when you sign up and we're going to put the link in the chat and we're going to put the link under this video if you're watching the replay.

All right, we are going to be bringing all of our, the, the three astrologers back at the end to answer any of your questions. And we have a raffle. So we do have a raffle here. You have to be here live in order to claim your prize. The way to put your name in for the raffle is to put your name in the chat right now. And I think that's it.

So just put, just chat in and say your name. I'm here. And you are automatically entered into the raffle. Raffle prizes include a free three month membership to the inner circle. There will be two winners of this. A signed copy of my book, Life by the Stars. There will be two winners of this. One year of astrology of inner circle membership. That is the grand prize. And there will be one winner of that.

You have to be here live to claim it. Enter your name in the chat and just say I'm here. And then you will reach out to us to claim your prize. So I'll go over all that later. All right, without further ado, let's bring our astrologers on screen and give them an opportunity to say hi to all, all of you. So unmute and turn your video on, please.

Yay. There they are, Georgia. Just waiting for you. I know. I'm trying to, I'm trying to on video here. Yes, Georgia, please. Well, hi, everybody. I don't know why. Oh, there you go. Yay. Thank you. Amazing. Okay, thank you so much for being here. It's this, this event, these panel events are so much fun and it's really the energy that you guys bring to this and the community, all of it together, that create so much magic.

So thank you for being here. Maybe just start by saying the name of your song or the name of your book and then we're going to give you an opportunity to go deeper on that in just a sec here. So, Adam, let's start with you. Since you're going to be our first one imagining this, I came up with a book title. Is the Future is Sovereign Together. The future is sovereign Together.

Okay, you're gonna. Everyone's going to get to, to glimpse into that book and understand why he's saying that very soon. Yes. Georgia, how about you? The song I have is an older song from Ambrosia from way back, and it's called Time Waits for no One. Ah. Georgia actually texted me that song. I Was like, yes, Georgia. Awesome selection. I love it. Okay, so time waits for no one.

And Ricky, how about you? I chose a Carpenter song. We've Only Just Begun. Beautiful. We've only just Begun. Okay, great. So let's dive in. Let's dig in. Adam, let's start with you. The future is sovereign. Together. Two words that we don't normally hear together. Sovereignty and togetherness. So tell us why you're saying that, what you're seeing in the astrology. Right, so to frame what I'm seeing for the second half of the year, I got to go back to February with the Saturn neptune conjunction at 0 Aries.

That conjunction was the first and only time that conjunction perfected. But it came very, very, very close in July of last year. And ever since that time, I've been focused. I've been like. My inner attention has been drawn repeatedly to looking at the theme of sovereignty. And here, what I mean by sovereignty are essentially two things. Number one, sovereignty means being sourced or sitting in the seat of your own being.

It does not have any actual reference to separate from other people, autonomous from an outside influence. If anything, when a person becomes more and more sovereign, what actually happens is we become more positively sensitive to the environment around us and the people and the needs around us. So the more sovereign I become, the more, if you will, an active, conscious participant in life I become. And I really see, because of this conjunction that happened at 0 Aries, I see it as much more than just this year or next year or even the year after.

I see this as we taught a course called Birthing Our New Era. It's a whole new age to me. And how I like to boil this down. I mean, there's a whole lot of teachings and really awesome practices around this. But how I boil this down is that conjunction for me at 0 Aries means we as a species are now ready, if we choose to. To stop simply to stop externalizing the source of our power, our creativity, and our validation that those things never come from outside, either laterally in human life or even vertically in metaphysical or religious life.

That's what I kind of boil this down to. And so this is radical because when you combine Saturn and Neptune in a kind of evolutionary or alchemical way, what relative to human history, what you see is, wow, as a species, we've really, you know, we've relied on hierarchical structures to determine who we are, where we come from, what's right, what's wrong, ethical, moral, all of that. And this is saying, sky's the limit, but it's up to us, to be honest, here.

And so that's where I kind of come from here. So a succinct way of wrapping this little bit up is I believe humanity has now lost our evolutionary rationale for externalizing our own creative instincts and our own power to initiate what we want and the world we want to live in. So that's what very much has framed this whole year for me and again and years in the future for me.

This is like the top level, most upstream influence, even relative to the Uranus, Pluto, Trine, which I'll have some things to say about coming up. Yeah, sorry. Well, Adam, I was just reflecting on how ironic it is that I don't know about all of you, but when I've thought of sovereignty before, often it's associated with independence, right? Like, I'm independent, I'm sovereign. I don't need anyone else. But what you just said is that sovereignty is being sourced or sitting in the seat of one's own being.

And when we do that, we're actually more connected. We're actually more sensitive to the people around us and the needs of the people around us, because we are sourced here, not externally. So I just find it interesting how, you know, there's all these. This conditioning and programming. One might think that to be sovereign is somewhat selfish. Right. Or it's going to make me lonely or alone. I have to, like, stand alone.

But what you're pointing out is that it's actually the opposite. That when we do that, we're actually more connected and more able to. To be interconnected with the people around us and the world around us very much. Amanda. Not only I become more sensitive, but because I'm sitting in the seat of my own being, I actually. My discernment increases my ability to assess and intuit and know what.

To pay attention to. What. Not what inside of me is an old story, an old tape, and what inside of me is useful and valuable to engage in. Georgia? Yeah. Oh, sorry. Go ahead, Adam. No, that's what I was going to say. I was just going to wonder if Georgia and Ricky had anything to reflect just based on this first part of what you've offered. Yeah, yeah. Georgia, I could.

I could. I could feel you. Go ahead. I'm sorry. What Adam is saying is, you know, at the core, I think of everything right now. And when he refers to the Saturn, Neptune, you know, it wasn't just another Saturn, which I'm going to talk a little bit more about later, but it was with Neptune and Neptune's Slower. And the slow planets always win. And Neptune is about. And there's two sides to every planet.

And one of the positive sides of Neptune is it's the oceans, right? The water merges with everything else. And by the way, water is one of the most powerful elements because it breaks down barriers, it can dissolve and then become water again. You know, so. And every time that Saturn, Neptune comes together, I think you're right, Adam. It's time to, in everybody's life, look at what visions they have and what they're willing to do get rid of to make those possible.

And that's when you deal with your time, which I will be talking about today. So I think it's beautiful what you said and the birthing, the new birthing, which is typical of Aries anyway. You know, Saturn and Aries is starting a new cycle. Neptune in Aries is starting a new cycle. You know, first one out the gate, which means there's going to be some mistakes, some tripping over our feet, but ultimately it will be a new path and this sovereignty of being the seat in your own being and stop worrying about what people are judging you to be.

That's the hardest part, I think, is the judgments. So beautiful, Adam. Thank you. Okay, Adam, is there anything else you want to add to your book right now? Any other transits or energies that you want to weave through this story? Thank you. A couple more. One, just the. The imminent Jupiter ingress into Leo. I'm only bringing this up. I'm not going to offer a delineation here of this, but I just want to mention this because I'm.

I'm very strongly feeling the Leo theme for the second half of this year in different. The eclipse and all that. And I just want to mention here, just. It's more like a. Everyone wear Leo. The houses that Leo occupies on your chart or charts that of people that you are working with, okay. That's the area of your life where you're meant to bring your quest, your desire for expansion into and as your very 3D human life.

That combination. And that can be very challenging because it can bring up old tapes of I need to keep these separate. I'm not. The world doesn't support me to do that there. But that's not, that's not. That's not going to hold up anymore. So essentially claim your authority to live according to your own timings, to live the way you want to live creatively. That's the. And wherever that house is, wherever that Leo is, especially the zero Leo that will initiate it, you know that area of your, of your life.

So maybe I can move on to the, my comments about the Uranus trying the Uranus Pluto tribe. Yes. So this is, this is going to come up, this is going to come in first time. Depending on your time zone. July 17th or 18th of this year, this will be the first of five of their transits, the last of which will go through spring of 2028. So this is a long running transit.

Okay. When I saw this happening, I think it was middle of last year, I'm like I, I put a thing on my calendar and I'm holding a webinar in a few weeks for this. I call this the future of shadow work, the power of collective sovereignty. Because when you combine, just like Georgia was, was for me really interestingly expanding on when you take the two, when you take out our planets together, there's a whole lot in there.

Uranus, Pluto, that could be a 3 week, 12 hour a day exploration. There's so much in that. But specifically, here's how I want to boil it down that makes it really easy for people. New methods for healing the link or, or linking up our identity level, meaning our emotions, our beliefs, our ancestral patterns, our behaviors, our goals and dreams. With every level of our physiological functioning. Muscles, organs, bones, hormones, even down to mitochondria and DNA.

The combination of the significations of Uranus and the significations of Pluto, when you bring them together, you have an, perhaps an unprecedented in a Trine because we've already had the square, now we're in the Trine. You have this unprecedented opportunity to not just improve our health but to kind of like quantum leap it into a whole other, a whole other octave of like inner communication, like where things are really connected in with each other.

So, so for example, you go outside on a rainy day and you walk outside and for some reason you just have the feeling in your body of something that if you were to translate it into thoughts it would be like, oh, it's going to be sunny later today. How do I know that? I don't know how I know that. It's that kind of, kind of like little mini magic moments.

It's not just little intuition. More of those kind of multi dimensional synaptic connections are going to be happening here, I think. And I would love all of us to take full advantage of this now more tangibly in the outer world. I'm seeing here this, this Trine that the building blocks of society, the fundamental structures that make human life possible. Food production, economy, economies, international Relations, energy production and storage, management of technology, even governments will be, I believe, forced.

And the, and the result of this forcing may only show up at the opposition will be forced to either incorporate or continue rejecting what I'm calling the next gen rules for collective life on Earth. And these adoptions or rejections will define how humanity evolves or remains dependent on the existing power structures that have been here for at least the last millennia. Going back before the startup, before even the, you know, the new world was discovered.

I'm going way, way, way, way back. The, the, the, the coordinated and concentrated nodes of power and wealth and resources, all of that is start can be eroded now. Now if you're more personal, how you use astrology is more for you and those you love and those that you live with and work with. This trine could be our soul pointing us where we need to evolve out of or away from how we've held the world and needed the world to be a certain thing and into perhaps a frightening vision or a new world that we would want to live in.

But because we've never done it and we don't know if we're going to have support for it, it brings up fear that evolution, it's a, this, these two planets together, it's no longer, it's not, it's not only about what, what's my next step in life. It's about connecting the dots between my vision, my heart and what I'm actually capable of. And if I'm not capable of it, you know, if I don't have agency to do what I want, go about finding out why, healing, forgiving, letting go and, and stepping forward in that direction.

So it's a lot there. But this is like, for me, Amanda, this was like the big story for this second half of the year. So I put a lot of time into this one. So you mentioned the opposition point and that may be the existing structures in our reality being forced to integrate new technology, new ways of energy production, you know, all the different things, maybe being forced to actually start to integrate some of these things.

Things. When is that opposition and when are you seeing that? Hold on a second. I just had it here. The opposition comes on software. Let's see. Make sure I got this right. Yes. 2046. September 2046. 2046. Oh, wow. Yeah, that's exactly what Georgia said this. The slower planets win and they take their time. So for people out there that feel like they're a part of this, meaning they're holding visions for new ways of being in Togetherness and sovereignty.

And they're holding visions for new technologies, new approaches. What would you say to them? Because. Because that sounds like a really far, far timeline. Yeah, yeah, it's a way far timeline. Here's the thing, though, about the future. The. The way that we contribute to the future that we want is right now in the present. Which means. So. So specifically to your question, Amanda, if. If that's you. If what Amanda just said and how she.

Just ask me this question. If you can relate with that. I'd say make a beautiful, loving commitment to yourself that you're going to look even deeper and wider in yourself. That's how you do this. You don't. You don't start with, if I change the outer world, then I'm going to feel better, right? If I can just find my perfect community, oh, my life is going to be golden.

That is exactly what I was talking about at the beginning about sovereignty, about, we have to stop externalizing the source of our power and our happiness and our. Our fulfillment. It has to come from within. Which means sometimes we're going to have to face difficult things in ourselves, like our own impatience, our own helplessness, our own need for. Please, someone just help me, because I don't want to help myself first.

Like, that kind of thing. When I moved to the Big Island, I got to study with this amazing kahuna. And I was in this workshop with her, and she was talking about the way the Hawaiians were in community in these islands for thousands of years and how the elders raised the children because the parents were at the perfect productive time in their life to work. But there was so much wisdom in that because the elders could pass that along to the children.

And she just described this. This way of living. And I remember being in the audience and crying because I felt like we were so far from that vision. And it was just. It was sad to me that we were living in a world that was the antithesis of this that she was describing. And so I raised my hand and I shared this. And she said something that stayed with me, has stayed with me ever since, which was, maybe you're here to do something about that.

And I went, oh, God, okay. Right. I mean, she just put it right back on me. Like, if you're feeling this yearning and this longing and there's things in the world that make you feel sad, maybe that's because you're here to do something about that. Not to go find it outside of yourself, but to help birth it and create it. And I was like, whoa, okay, so I would just say that to all of us right now, if that's, if that's up for us.

If we look out in the world. It's like, God, wouldn't it be great if, if all those free energy technologies were available to everybody and we're just like waiting for someone else to do something about that. It's like, well, how can I contribute to that? What is my role in that? Right?

That's what I'm hearing you say. Yeah, totally. As you're speaking, I'm just actually thinking about you years and years ago when, you know, when I, you first invited me to come to do something with astrology, maybe it was inner circle a lot.

Probably the reason, a big reason I'm remembering now is I said yes was because I could feel that in you. You're like, I'm just doing this because this is my vision. Like I know that I want to do this or I have to do this. And I'm always a sucker for anyone who's raising their hand going that, like I will, I will do that. I will follow that.

Because that's soul talking. Yes. You know what? That's so true, you guys. Like when you are creating from that soul place and from that aligned place, it is true that other, other like minded, like hearted beings are attracted to that and they, they want to be a part of that. So I, I love, I love everything you're saying, Georgia or Ricky. Is there anything you want actually before we do that, Adam, is that the end of the book or did you want to add anything else?

At the risk of repeating myself, I just want to read one, one last thing I have here. Okay, very short. I think the second half of the year and the amount of this for each of us will depend on how the first half of how we've been responding to the first half of the year. Oh, I believe we'll each be contacting either willingly, consciously or by outer events where inside of us we still want the world to return to what we've known or to become what we envision and feel it can be and, and our relationship with that.

Because even, even like my vision for the future that I can almost taste, if I'm not in my seat, I'm. If, if you will, I'm. I might be giving my power away to a disembodied vision that I'm keeping separate or, or distant or in the future from me now. So it's not always outside other people. It can also be myself. So I talk about getting super Honest, emotionally, psychologically, physiologically, and also spiritually honest about how much responsibility I am willing to take for my experience.

Now just be honest. No judgment. Don't have a bar that you have to live to just get honest. How. How much. How capable am I to be responsible for my experience? The good, the neutral, and the difficult. Good. We're at the bait. We're at the baby stage of this transit. Right. So just really, like, being honest about where we're at is the first step. Is the first step.

Yeah. Yeah. Okay, good. Thank you, Adam, Ricky, or. Or Georgia, anything you want to add to that before we move on to our next song or book? I just want to say it's. We're off to a great start. Amanda. I just. I'm just. In this moment, I'm just inspired. Is it okay if I. I can paste or copy some of what I just said into the chat? So everyone has it like, oh, I love that.

Yes, definitely. Definitely. All right. Okay, let's go to you, Georgia, as Adam's putting out that in the chat, and then also for any. Anyone tuning into the recording, I know you don't have access to the chat, so we'll actually. Anything that gets put into the chat throughout this panel event, we will also either put links to or find another way below this replay for you to get access to those things.

So. Okay, Ms. Georgia, so you told us that your song is Time Waits for. For no one. Please tell us what that's all about. Well, I'm. I. I love how Adam began this because it just, you know, every time you hear other people who know your language, it opens up so many more ideas, you know, And I'm sitting here making all these notes, but I think I'm dovetailing in some ways and then bringing it to reality, the real world that we live in right now.

The reason I chose that song, I love songs and because time is about Saturn. Saturn is about the word time. And it's actually interesting that Adam brought up the words and how they mean things, because one of the things that I like to look at when I look at Saturn are words like structure, stuck. The stuck words. Sturdy, steady, sticky, stringent. You know, those are all Saturn words.

And Saturn is the last planet we can see with our eyes. It's a lot faster than Neptune, which takes 165 years. But something happens when those two come together. And they come together about every 35 to 36 years. They. It. What I think happens is it softens. It doesn't weaken, but it softens the energy of, of. Of Saturn, because Saturn has had. Saturn has had to travel over Neptune and get dissolved in some way.

And you don't get to. If you don't dissolve a few things, you can't still. You can't build the new structures as it moves, as Saturn moves into, like the new phase. Plus the fact that Saturn, Neptune was at 0 degrees of Aries, which is the, you know, spring. That's the spring equinox when everything takes place. So one of the things I've noticed over several Saturn, Neptune conjunctions in my life is that it, and with clients that I work with and friends, is that there's a reality check about how much really you want to do number one, and how much you never.

A reality check, which you're never going to do, you know, even though you wanted to do it. And the third reality check is how can I incorporate what I really want to do with my vision? And so the thing that's interesting is that Saturn and Neptune are both, as I said in the beginning, maybe I mentioned it, I think I said in the beginning, they're in Aries right now.

So this is like the baby steps of the zodiac, you know, they have to get a little further along before they start to get their feet. And so with that said, Saturn is about time. And you can't. You can't invest, you can't bank time. It doesn't draw you interest. It's in this very moment, at this very time, and it will never be the same. And so what's very important with this time that we're in right now is to look at what really can I do that is true to who I am and to also learn to differentiate, to discern.

That's kind of a Saturn word too, you know, because I help a lot of people. We all help a lot of people. But Adam said it right, Taking responsibility. That is Saturn also taking responsibility. And we can help people too, until the cows come, come home. That's a Middle Western term. But sometimes as you age, as I am doing, you look at things and you say, okay, if I help this person, it's going to really help them.

But also intuiting Neptune, is the person really going to do something with that? In other words, discerning between where you can use your best effort and your best time. Time. Time is one of the most valuable things we have. And it is the last planet that we can see in the sky. Which is also very interesting because before they found all those other planets out there, the ancients really thought Saturn was it.

And in a lot of ways when I talk about it, they might have felt like you're going to walk off the edge of the universe. So it was a limitation. Saturn felt like a limitation. And it is. I mean, when you're younger, where it is in your chart, in the house that it rules is where you may experience a lot of limitation. It may also be embedded in that piece where there's an incredible opportunity to become a specialist, a person who can really know from the pain or the difficulty or the taking of the responsibility or the severing of ties that no longer work and being very, very clear.

And that's Saturn too. Crystals and rocks and crystals are Saturn, you know, interesting diamonds, which is probably the most, the hardest of all the is an Aries ruled stone and it will cut through glass. And you have Saturn, Neptune at 0 degrees of Aries right now. Diamonds, you know, so. So where are the diamonds in your life that you need to dig out of your own mind if you don't know how to do it, as Adam said, don't say I can't do it or I need help or I mean you can say those things, but take responsibility.

And then part of the problem of taking responsibility or doing things when you want to do something and you keep stopping yourself from doing it is the voice of judgment and also all the judgment voices that you grew up with, especially in the first seven years of your life, which was the moon phase of your life, half of which was non verbal. And it is a very interesting thing that the moon and Saturn follow each other.

The moon is emotion. Saturn is about being clear, what's important, what's necessary. What pain does one have to go through to have gain in the end? What mountains the goats do we have to climb sometimes by ourselves to get to where we're going? And the key thing when you climb mountains, and I've done that in my lifetime, is never look at the top. This is just a little trick.

Never look at the top of the mountain you're climbing. Always only look at the steps in front of you because then you'll get there faster and you won't screw your head up and say, oh, I can't do that. Baby steps, you know, so you know that that's a major piece. And the other piece is with Saturn now in Aries, which is ruled by Mars and it's going to be there for two and a half years and Neptune will be in Aries for 14 years.

Is look in your own life where your Mars is because Is your Mars functional? Is your Mars dysfunctional? What house does Mars rule and become more strategic rather than impulsive? When a gladiator goes into the middle of a ring, he or she has to know the opponent. They have to know what tools. Mars is tools, Aries is tools, what tools the other person is going to use so they can do a counterpoint.

They have to think before they act. They have to plan if they're going to have things done with an efficient amount of time, with as many, as few resources as one needs. And so that's what's happening right now, I think. And, and, and, and you can even look at countries, you can look at cities for this kind of idea. So where is your Mars in the chart? Is it being activated?

Is it being eclipsed? You know, don't believe these things that some old astrology books used to say that Mars in this sign is bad and Mars in this sign is good. Because every Mars, every planet is good and it has it. But Mars is about what motivates you. If something's not motivating you, you're not going to do it. Mars, Saturn, Aries is about what motivates me. Am I afraid to do that?

Because people are going to throw me out? And that's a possibility because with Neptune, and again, Neptune has two sides. I mean, I know Neptune very well in my own life. Neptune is the. Can be dismemberment. Neptune can tear you apart like the ocean can. But Neptune, and also, especially, especially in business astrology, we see this all the time. But I also see this in people's charts. Neptune is the merging principle.

It's the thing that brings things together. You know, so, so merging with your diamonds, fellow diamonds does the project. And then when you go into that, you look at, you know, the fact that we are moving more into what I would think less. And, and, and Adam alluded to this. Jupiter is going into Leo in a few days. Actually on June 30th and on July 26th, the South Node will go into Leo.

And so one of the things as we move through this next six months, as we move into the new year, is about really looking where ego is getting in the way. South node, Leo. Leo's great. It's magnificent, it's abundant, it's fun, it's creative. But the other side of Leo is itself important. It's the sun. It's the center of the universe. Right? And Leo is the ego. Okay, so what part of your ego is keeping you from making that Saturn, Neptune vision become a reality?

And that's one of the challenges, I think over the course of this next year as the south node and Jupiter become more aligned closer to the end of the year. I have so many thoughts, but does anybody have any questions right now? Sorry, I'm just going off on my tangent. It's so good, Georgia, I want to give Adam and Ricky a chance to respond to any of this, but before that I just, I would love to respond because there's a few things that you said that are just like, Ping.

Yes. Oh my goodness. One of the things about the reality check that I noticed moving toward the Saturn Neptune conjunction at 0 Aries was Saturn saying, you say you want this thing, but here's the reality of what it's going to take. Not only what it's going to take, but how long it's going to take. This is not going to be some quick little, you know, you get exactly what you want right when you want it and it's going to just come easy, like get real about what is actually involved.

And if you still really want that thing like you say you do, be ready to work for it and be ready to work for it for the long haul. Not the, the quick fix, not the, you know, six week abs. You know what I'm saying? Like, this is a much grittier, it takes a lot more in the third dimension to bring these things into reality than we ever think it will.

You know, and then, and then there's also the, well, why isn't it happening fast enough? Why, why isn't it happening as fast as it seems like it's happening for this other person? Then we give up. And so that when you're talking about the ego, it's like that impatience and the comparison AI often makes us give up on the dream before it had enough time to mature. Right, right.

And then we look back at our life and go, God, I've started and stopped, you know, 20 times. Well, maybe it's that point right there where all the shoulds came in about how long it should take and what it should feel like, which was based on an illusion. We don't, we, we've never done it before, so we don't actually know. And we might look at other people that already seem like they have the end result, but we're not in their skin.

We don't know what it actually took for them to get there. Right, right. Okay. The other thing you talked about when you were talking about discernment with Saturn enabling a deeper level of discernment, I heard the difference between trying to save people and like be the savior. Like that savior complex versus empowering and to, to empower. They all absolutely have to participate. Like you can. We can't take responsibility for everybody else.

It has to be a participatory experience. And then finally, I'm just marveling at the fact that you brought in diamonds. And because the song that we played at the beginning, the song that we're going to play at break and I believe the song we're going to play at the end talks about we are diamonds taking shape. Yes, Literally, those are the words. I'm just like, oh my gosh, of course Georgia brought the diamonds.

So. And crystal, another ST word for Saturn. Never thought of that before. All right, how do we know if our Mars is functional or dysfunctional? Well, I mean, I think you should know astrology or talk to somebody who does Mars. Well, Mars is, you know, there's an archetypal story that goes with Mars. It's the Wounded Warrior. You know, the, the, the. Actually Joseph Campbell talked about this when he did his Power of Myth and he talked about how the hero or the heroine in order to become self actualized, which is really more the sun and the hero or heroine is more the Mars, in order to become self actualized, they have to go through the wilderness.

And many times it's by themselves. There's no help, there's a wound. And many times they leave their environment. That's another story. You can go back to Clan of the Cave Bear with Jane Owl, who wrote that about how and Mars archetypes will many times be people have strong Mars in their charts, will have oftentimes been severed from their clan, ousted from their clan, wounded by their clan, which is part of the story of the hero who eventually gets through the wilderness and survives and then becomes self actualized, at which point they can partner, not before.

And so that's a story to look at in your own life is where were you severed, where were you cut off in that area of your life? Whatever the house represents. And are you still licking that wound or have you gone on beyond it and just had a nice scar? You know, I mean that's kind of basic way to look at it. Beautiful scars really mean something. Right?

But you know, or did you ignore the wound and let it fester and it killed you? I know that's. Is that a way to look at Mars in your chart? Whether it's functional or non functional? Because. And sometimes Mars in the chart is asleep for a while. That doesn't mean it's not effective because sometimes your Mars will be. Say if you have Mars at 0 Aries just as an example, Neptune's going over that right now.

You may all feel like you don't know what motivates you, but what you're really doing. Neptune is the incubation period. You're dreaming, you're thinking, make notes. You know, that's how you know whether your Mars is functional or not. If you keep shooting yourself in your own foot and getting the same result and then getting angrier and angrier or depressed that it's not happening. So. And sometimes our. All our Mars are dysfunctional.

Let's face it, we're humans, right? But that's usually, I think, when the universe is coming along and kicking you in the rear end and saying, hey, get back on the saddle and get going again, you know, because we're human, and then take responsibility. What I'm not hearing you say is that you might be cursed with a dysfunctional Mars. And that's just the way it is. You're saying that we all have.

We all have functional elements of our Mars, dysfunctional elements of our Mars. And like Adam started us off, having an honest assessment of where we're at in relation to that energy in our chart is really important. The other thing is you've talked several times about kind of being kicked out of the clan or judged or misunderstood as part of the journey and how the ocean, Neptune, can literally dismember us.

But the cool thing is that there's another ocean waiting for you. There's another clan waiting for you. There's another. There's another group of souls waiting for you. If you do get kicked out of that clan, it's not forever. There is that period in the wilderness where you are alone, but then you're just going to find these other magical beings on the other side and go, whoa, I. Where have you been my whole life?

So this is so good. All right, we're gonna. Can I just add one thought? But you have to be willing to go through the jungle by yourself sometimes. Yeah. I mean, it is scary. It is scary. And you have to learn to use your tools or learn to be, you know, Saturn rules is survival. You know, Mars is about making it. You know, if you just focus and plan ahead.

If it's going to rain tonight, get some bamboo and make a sheet. You know, I mean, plan ahead. Yes. Anyway, thank you. All right. We are going to just. Just have a few minutes for discussion of Georgia, what Georgia just introduced, which was so much amazingness and Then we're going to take a short break. Then we're going to announce our first raffle winners. So this is all coming.

Ricky or Adam, is there anything that you want to add in response to Georgia? I want to say, you know, I was, I was a professional football player and pretty much every day, Coach Gabe Mars, Saturn, Neptune lecture. Because we had to do something that was very difficult. We had an opponent, we had to sharpen our tools, we had to get ready and we had to envision ourselves overcoming that challenge.

And at the beginning of the week, we had to envision the work it's going to take throughout the week to get there. And in the beginning of the season he would have the same thing, but it would apply to a longer term goal of winning the super bowl and realizing there's a lot of work to put in and it's a vision. And what are we all willing to put in the effort and the time to make that vision come to reality.

So I felt like I was back in my football days. Ricky, Ricky, in terms of, I mean, you were playing at the most elite levels of professional athleticism in the NFL. And so let's just take all the metaphors we've been talking about. There's, there's the vision of the end goal, there's the work that's going to be required to get there. There's the reality of that when you survey either yourself because you're a Heisman Trophy award winning NFL player, so you were the creme, the creme de la creme.

Am I saying that right? Anyways, it doesn't matter. You are at the top of your game. And what pitfalls or what blind spots did you see either in yourself or in other players that sabotaged that or, or made it not come to fruition in the way that you might have envisioned? What did you see happen over and over for people or yourself? So I think also related to this conversation is in football, they say it's the ultimate team sport.

So it's not, it's not yet a team. So it's not. We're not doing it by ourselves. It's all. That's why the coach is talking to us. It's all of us have to buy in. And so a lack of leadership, and I don't mean someone telling everyone what to do. And part of being sovereign is sitting in your own seat. I had a mentor and he called it the permeable laws of consciousness, is that when you're willing to be something, that energy that you're being it radiates in all directions and, and it affects people.

I mean, we all know that when someone's in a bad mood, it tends to affect everyone. But also when someone is embodying something more than just anger, that tends to affect people too. So the coach's job is to get the leaders on the team to embody the vision and embody it, meaning showing on a daily basis the work that it takes to make it come to fruition. So I say the power of this group is it's easy for us to come together and talk about these wonderful visions and these ideas.

Ideas. But as soon as we get off this call, where do we go back to? And what's, what are we swimming in then? Is it supporting these things that we're talking about? So I think when you're doing anything difficult, and this is human nature, the people you surround yourself with are very important because they're going to either make it easier or they're going to make it harder. You know, it's interesting.

So my wasband former husband was also on the track to professional baseball and he was very, very naturally gifted at pitching. He was a left handed pitcher. What I noticed, because then I was surrounded by all these other, you know, at Cal Berkeley, all these guys who were wanting to make the major leagues and, and on that track. But there was a huge difference. When I look back at the ones who actually made it and the ones who didn't, I think partially the ones who didn't, I don't know how bad they really wanted it.

Like they were good and they loved it, but did they really want it that bad? Right? And then also the ones that ended up making it, they were not the ones out partying until 3am they were up at 4am in the gym, doing the extra reps, doing the extra work every single day. So I think just in terms of metaphors, you guys, again, because there's things you want in your life, there's things that you envision for this life.

And we have this one life, right? We have this one incarnation. I mean, maybe we have multiple, but we know right now we're here and we're now. And there's this beautiful birth chart that is a representation of the mission that you came here to this planet with. And so how bad do you want it? Like really, I feel like Saturn's just like, how bad do you want it?

How bad do you want to experience it? And are you willing to do the work? Because there's the vision and there's the work and and all the things that the astrologers have brought up are the things that can become obstacles on the path. And that's not. Those are by design as well. Those are going to help to chisel you into the person that really embodies this mission that you're carrying forward, whatever that is, that vision that you're carrying forward.

And maybe that vision is to be an incredible parent and to raise a family. Like, it's not always this thing that we see in the world. It can. It's highly individualized and highly unique, and it's. It's within you already. So, yeah, one. One thing, Amanda, that I wanted to add to this to further answer your question. You know, I always say, if I was the head coach of a football team, let's say a college team, the first thing I would do, I'd walk in and I'd say, I know that there's a group of you that don't really want to be here.

You think you do, but if you really check your heart, you're not putting in the work. Not that that's wrong or that's bad. That's information that maybe you need to be doing something where it is easier for you to put in the work. So I would say I will honor your scholarship, I promise, but only if you stand up and you're honest in this moment. Walk out of the room because.

So I think. And this is where the chart comes in, is the beautiful thing about the chart. It's giving us information about ourselves in from the inside out. And it's so necessary because from the time we're born, most of the information we get is from the outside in. And so most of our. And this is the reality check for a lot of us, Saturn, Neptune, is a lot of our visions, right?

They're not really our visions. They're other people's visions. And I think part of the evidence, because if it's truly your vision, you will have access to the energy to bring it into fruition. So part of Neptune, two sides. Neptune, the beautiful side, are the visions of what's possible. The darker side, two darker sides, the nightmares of what we fear is possible, that's not. But also the other dark side are our delusions.

What do we imagine is for us that's not really for us? And the beauty of the chart is, right, I use the chart to check my work, right? If you have a vision or an idea or a plan, check. Look at your chart to see if your chart supports it. Because if your chart doesn't support it. I'm not going to say it's impossible, but I will say it's probably not going to be worth it.

Also, timing, maybe your chart supports it and maybe it's in you to be incubated for the next decade or the next two decades. I mean, we had someone come on our the ceremony that we did for the cancer solstice the other day who is in the process of bringing through a play that she has been incubating for 40 years. She had the dream about it 40 years ago and now it's streaming through her in just effortless.

But that's where I was talking about before. The impatience, the ego. Like, no, it should happen now. It's like, maybe you need to become someone in the process of bringing this vision to life. It might take a little longer than you thought. And that's okay because when it does come, it's going to be better than ever. Adam, one more thing and then we'll take our break. I love Ricky.

Thank you for bringing this in and sharing your life experience and the wisdom you're obviously living and sharing with others. Man, it's really inspiring for me. I want to add one more piece to this also. In addition to. Or not in addition, but maybe at the same time as learning to navigate what's difficult and what's easy in the pursuit of what's actually my vision. And I'm trying to frame my comment here within the context of the coming transits that sometimes what we're missing is we're not surrounding ourselves by the right people.

We're not in the right sangha. We're not interacting with or reading or sharing with the right people. And the right doesn't mean we like them or they share our political views or I feel emotionally safe with them. That's not, that's not the metric for right or wrong. Right or wrong here is does this trigger, does this resonate or kind of cohere my vision, even if it brings up more like, fear or like more excitement or whatever?

So am I with the right people, the right energy, the right house, the right land, the right animals, the right silence kind of thing? That's really important, especially these days, because about this thing that my book title, the Sovereign, the Future of Sovereign. Together. Together. Yeah. Yes. And there's so many rabbit holes we can go down with social media, with the news, with YouTube channels that are bringing us in the opposite direction, like really truly.

And if we check in and feel how it feels in the body when we're engaging with those Things and ask that honest question, is this really adding to anything in my life or is this just keeping me in that comfortable place? Adam, like you said, everybody here has the same political views, and that just makes me feel good about myself or whatever it is. You know, there's places we can really get stuck in this wilderness that we are traversing.

Okay. Oh, yeah. Georgia, go ahead. Yeah. Oh, I was just going to say I let. I wanted to. Ricky. I. I really liked the coach, or if you were a coach, what you would say to your people about if you're serious, you know, and I'll. I'll, you know, walk out now if you're not serious. I. I remember I had the same experience when I went for my Mass mba and the teacher looked at the whole room and said, look around the room.

If by the time you graduate, two of you will be left. And I mean. I mean, he said it in a little bit more professor. Professorial, but it was true. It was very hard. And it was that if it's meant to be for you, then you get filled up. You know, it's like you fill up. That's Neptune. You. I feel high without drugs. You know, I feel in an ecstatic place.

Right. And Saturn, of course, is the reality. You can't be totally ecstatic. Right. But you have. That's the people I think that Adam's talking about is the people that when you're with them, you feel like, wow, you know, and you get you. Your mind and your spirit opens up even further. But then there's those other people who are psychic vampires. And now with Saturn, Neptune, with everything that's happening in the world with your friends or your family, sometimes it's going to take Saturn with Mars to say I love you and not.

But. And let's stay in our own lanes, you know, and not allow them to infiltrate you to bring that spiritual quest forward. So it's just. I just loved. Which. I just loved the coach idea. I think it's a great idea. And. And it's good for beginning classes, too, by the way. Yeah, classes. If you're going to be serious, stay. If you're not, leave. Exactly. And if you like to become an astrologer, that's another thing that people think, oh, a little weekend workshop and then I can be teaching.

And it's like, oh, no, don't do that, please. Okay, you guys, this is awesome. Thank you so much. This is why I love these panel events. You never know what's going to happen. You never know what's going to emerge. You never know what the unique configuration of energies is going to bring about organically, and it's always magical. So thank you all for being here. The chat is so much fun to tune into.

Keep your comments coming, keep your thoughts coming, keep supporting each other. Because when I think about a community of people that you can tune into to feel supported, to. To remember why you're here and what your path is and. And to be reminded of that all the time, this is a great place for that. So we're going to take a break. On that break, we are going to play a little commercial where you'll hear from some of our inner circle members about their experience being members.

So if you are interested, it's really nice to hear from them. If you're an Inner circle member, please, in the chat, you can also share your experience. At the end of this little break, we are going to pick our first two raffle winners. Those two people are going to get three months free in the Inner circle. So they're going to get the their first three months as they're going to get to join us there.

And I love when I hear from people who win the raffle and then they're still in the inner circle months or years later going, I got in on the raffle, I won, and I'm still here. It's like, yay, awesome. So, and then after that, we're gonna go to Ricky, and Ricky is going to tell us about. I wrote it down, Ricky, We've only just begun his song. All right, so take a little time and we'll see you back here in just about five minutes.

All right. We are diamonds taking shape. Can you believe it? We. We chose that song before we knew Georgia would ever say anything about diamonds. All right, so the first raffle winners, I misspoke. This is not for the free three months in the Inner circle. That's going to be the next raffle winners. These two raffle winners are going to get signed copies of my book, Life by the Stars, which just came out not even a month ago, or I guess a month ago.

And thank you so much to all of you who have read it, who have sent in, who have done Amazon reviews, who have sent in, sent in your emails, who have direct messaged me and just told me how this book is impacting your life. It means so much to me, and I am so thrilled that the vision for it, which, by the way, I've been saying I want to write a book since 2019.

I would say this is one of the Things that I thought would not take as much time as it has. So it's been a very amazing Saturn lesson lesson for me. And. And then the timing of it just ended up being perfect. I couldn't have scripted it better, but of course, I resisted that for a long time. I thought I should have the book done a lot sooner.

So I was speaking about that earlier from direct experience. But these two winners are going to get this mailed to you. My dad and my mom in California have the books and they are going to package it up, ship it off to you with love. And the winners of a free signed copy of Life by the Stars, which I'm also going to throw in the companion journal that goes with the book and a bookmark you.

The winners are Adam Guild. Oh, Adam, I'm sorry. Autumn. Autumn Guild. And Marcia Butchart. Marcia Butchart, which actually sounds a little bit like my middle name. Marcia, which is Boucher, like. Anyways, I wonder if there's any sort of etymology that goes together there, but. Autumn Guild and Marcia Bouchardt, you are getting free signed copies of Life by the Stars. Email us@supportstrologyhub.com we'll get your mailing address and we'll get those off to you.

Okay. Congratulations. The next story or the next song is going to come from Ricky. He has chosen We've Only Just Begun. Ricky, can you tell us a little bit about your song, why you chose it, what that means? Sure can. Yeah. So this is a fun assignment. And I think one of the things that speaking this language or perceiving through this language allows us to do is recognize patterns.

And I think that's what we do. We recognize the patterns and then we attempt to make sense of them. So when I thought about the first half of the year and looking at what was going on, the thing that jumped out to me, Pluto had already entered Aquarius, but still very early in Aquarius, Uranus entered, Gemini left and was going to come back, and Neptune entered Aries left, and it was going to come back.

So first half of the year experiencing the three outer planets moving in to different signs. And for the second half of the year, and we've already experienced kind of what it feels like when they first move in second half of the year, the outer planets are going to retrograde back to earlier, earlier points in the signs they've already passed through. So kind of a review. So it's a review of a beginning, you know, And I think of.

I'll go back to a football analogy. One of the Things in football that we have to do on a daily basis is we have to go back and watch practice. And watching the first practice of the year, there's obviously a lot more mistakes. Those early practices we watch the last practices of the year, we're not really making mistakes because it's later in the process. So focusing on beginnings, beginnings, this is really the theme.

And to me it's the type of astrology I do is very personal. But talking to the astrology of a group, that's a little bit more. It's a little bit more challenging for me. But I follow the principles and I use the tools and I trust the symbols and they take me somewhere. One of the things that I will be teaching later this year are transition progressions, both of them.

Because a lot of astrologers, it's easier first to learn transits, but when you learn progressions, you see that they interact with each other. Progressions take a longer period of time and they create the general climate that the transits occur in. So if we just look at the transits and we don't understand the larger environment that the transits are occurring in, we're missing something. We're still going to do a good job with the transits, but we're missing larger context.

And so if we're thinking about speaking to what's. What's the weather for all of us, I want to go back as far as I can in context to create this, the setting for it. And it'll make sense. It'll make a lot of sense relative to what a lot of things that Adam said. Because, you know, I think astrologically. So whenever I hear a word in English or whatever language I translated into astrology.

So for me, someone says the word sovereign, thing that comes up first in my mind is Leo. And someone says groups. First thing that comes up in my mind is the 11th house, you know, and by. By connection, the sign Aquarius. And I think of the Leo because I think of signs. We can think of them as individual, but we can also think of them as axis, you know, because anything in Leo is going to be interacting with anything in Aquarius all the time.

So it's an axis. And. And I think of ideally being sovereign in a group. That's really what this axis is all about. To truly be able to contribute something to the larger group or to the larger whole, we have to have something to contribute. We have to know who we are. We have to be sitting in ourselves to be able to offer that to the group. Right? And so this theme of Aquarius, Aquarius, Leo, right, jumped out.

So the largest context that I work with in astrology are the astrological ages. And there's a lot of controversy about when the ages start, when they end. The general idea is each age is about 2100 and a little over 2100 years. And according to my research and calculations, and also some hints from my teacher, Stephen Forrest, Stephen puts the beginning of the age of Aquarius around 1906. For me, I put it 1881.

So 20, 25 years apart. 2100 years. It's close enough. So the point I'm making here is we are in the beginning of the age of Aquarius. And and so that's, to me, that's the setting of what's going on in the larger scheme of humanity that we're a part of, because this year exists in the context of our lives, which exist in a larger context. And I'm saying this, but I, I don't think I'm giving anyone any new information or even saying anything new, bringing anything new to this conversation.

I'm just naming explicitly in my, in my perspective, the astrology of it, right, Is that we are in the age of becoming ourselves, of learning to think for ourselves. Okay? That's the background for me that everything else transits, progression, everything is going on inside of that larger container. So based on my starting point, the fact that Pluto is in Aquarius for the first time since the beginning of the age of Aquarius, and it's in the beginning of Aquarius, ah, more of this beginning kind of energy.

But now we have more specifics because it's more about this individuation, energy, learning to be yourselves. And I say learning to be in yourselves. And I remind us that we're in the beginning of this process, right? So we're going to make mistakes. I don't even like that mistakes. We're in the process of figuring it out, right, that it's already embedded in that. But so for us to understand the moment, and I think this is the, the brilliance of astrology, understanding the moment is it's like the weather, right?

You know how to dress, you know how to act in the moment. And so if we know that the general push of all humanity is nudging us in the in, in the direction of individuality, of, of being ourselves, learning to think for ourselves so that we can sit in our own seat and actually have something to contribute to the group. This is where we're being pushed. So again, my focus goes to Pluto in Aquarius and it goes to, what is Uranus doing?

Uranus just entered Gemini. So for me, I'm mapping the astrology on the moment. And the next step for me is to look around the world and look for clues. Clues, clues. The first thing. And you know, Steve, my teacher always says, when a pickpocket sees the Dalai Lama, he just sees pockets, so. Meaning that we're all using the language of astrology, more or less, but we all have different perspectives, so what we see and what we share is going to be slightly different.

But hopefully, because we're using the same language, we can. We can communicate with each other. And you know, one of the. On my little tag, it says co founder of Leela Labs is. I started an astrological tech company. And. And I spend all my days teaching AI how to do astrology. And, well, I spent half of my day teaching AI how to do astrology, the other half of my day teaching people how to do astrology.

Because I believe as we move into the age of Aquarius, and this is part of the beginning, as we equip ourselves with the tools we need for the journey, right? And if you start in the beginning of the journey and you don't grab the tools you need the time, you get halfway in the journey, you're kind of stuck, right? And I would say in the Aquarian age, and obviously I'm biased, the number one tool that we have access to to help us navigate this time is astrology, right?

And. But like any tool, in order to get good at the tool, you have to utilize it. You have to use it, right? And so in utilizing the tool of looking back at your life, but also the things in the world that have caught your attention, that have changed drastically in the past year. Because if we're. If the astrologers are saying outer planets are moving into new signs, all things are going to change.

Well, they've been in there for a little bit, so we should start to see the beginning of those things that are trained that are starting to change rather drastically. And if we're trusting the symbols like I do, I can take heart. And that the changes. And we've already said this in this conversation, the changes are pushing us, right? Pushing, pushing our evolution, pushing us to not look so much outside for who we are, but to look inside for who we are.

And, you know, we have therapy and growing, so we have help looking inside. But a lot of times therapists are just as blind as we are. Okay? That's why I come back and say the tool that we all have available to us is astrology. Astrology is ruled by Aquarius and Uranus. So to me, this is part of the times we're living in. And if we don't have tools, meditation, whatever, tools, doesn't only have to be astrology.

But if we don't have access to these tools that facilitate us knowing who we are and thinking for ourselves, right, we're gonna, we're gonna be in trouble. We're gonna be in trouble because we don't have an umbrella when the rain is. When it's raining outside. Okay? So using learning astrology, studying, using whatever, you know, look at the things in your life that is starting, that are starting to change drastically and, and look at, look at your chart and to get a sense of what's going on, to get a story, to make sense of it.

And part of the story of making sense of it is we're being pushed outside of our comfort zone. And I mean pushed outside of our comfort zone, zone relative to the past. Because the other ruler of Aquarius is Saturn. Saturn rules tradition in the past. And people always, they're kind of confused of how can Aquarius be ruled by Saturn and, and Uranus. They seem so different. Well, the image I think is it's like once you get to the top of the hill, right.

Once you get to the top of the mountain, it's like, then what? You know, so, so it's like once we push up against barriers and boundaries that don't make sense to us, the natural response is to innovate, is to innovate. So part of the Aquarian urge is to get to recognize where things aren't working, which can be uncomfortable. And trying to think based on all of the things that are changing, all of the new technologies that we have available to us, how can we integrate them, utilize them to become more of ourselves and.

Or to deal with the issues that are in front of us. So we've only just begun. Now it's more of what I've learned about. But we've all learned because we've all lived long enough to understand the process of beginnings and understanding the weather. But this is the weather relative to time. You know, a good time to plant, good time to do things. So that's what I meant earlier when I said the chart supporting something.

Because I, I don't mean a trine or a sextile. I mean, if Jupiter is, is in a hard aspect, any aspect to your second house, it's a good, it's a good time to think big about Resources, Right. That's what I mean when I say supporting, supporting. Just a little bit of background about the way I think of what an astrological chart does or what it is, is one of the ways I think about a chart.

It's a map of our unconscious. And if you go back to the diagram of the. The iceberg with 15% on top and 85% below, the 15 is the part of us that's here talking. This is what I want, this is what I hope. This is what I want to do. But the part that really where the energy is to actually make things happen, it's in that 85%. So when I say your chart supporting it, it's another way of saying you're unconscious or have a better way of saying it.

Your soul supporting something. Okay, so this is just the beginning. Giving yourself permission to be a beginner. And part of being a beginner is you don't have expectations that you're going to get it right. But also, hopefully you give yourself permission to play with it a little bit. And that's more of an attitude. But if we're afraid of the things that are changing, we're not really in a position, we're not in a position to play with it.

So we've only just begun. There's a lot of change that's about newness, going places we've never been before, experiencing things that we've never experienced before. That's the energy that's up in the air and that makes predicting what's going on in the world almost impossible because everyone is experiencing these new ideas, these new possibilities, these new technologies, and it's just the beginning of it. So to me, to stay, to stay on, on speed, to stay on pace for the later processes, you got to get the beginning right.

You know, getting off on the right foot makes. Makes a huge difference in the rest of the journey. So for me, this is a time, you know, in depth psychology, they might call it a liminal period. If things are changing and evolving, they haven't quite formed yet. And so for me, the astrology of the rest of the year is to give yourself permission, right, to be, to be a beginner, to get a sense of how things are going so you're better prepared for the year after and the year after and the year after.

But also keeping in mind all of it from what I'm saying is pushing us up to, pushing us to become more of ourselves, to be more sovereign, so we have something to contribute to the group, to the future, to where we're all headed. But we all got to learn how it works first. So an example is AI you know, it's up. The government doesn't know what to do.

No one knows what to do. It's this new technology, and it's moving super fast, and it's bringing up a lot of stuff for people, right? So to me, if we know that Pluto is an Aquarius and making a trine to Uranus in Gemini, Information, opening your mind, technology, it's an indication that, you know, do a little research, try to understand it, try to have a relationship with the energy.

Because, you know, one of the things that Steve says, and I think a lot of people don't really listen, the chart is important. It's a big part of the story. But what we're doing is the. The upper half of the iceberg and the lower half of the iceberg. It's about our conscious interaction with the astrological potentials. So, you know, I grew up in a very religious household, and we go to church every Sunday, and every service would end.

Anyone want to come up here and. And start your personal relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ? You know, every service. And that's kind of carried over because I. I think for me, being a good astrologer is a manifestation of having a good relationship with all the planets. Because when they show up, it's like, oh, I know what time it is. I know what to do, right? If it's raining outside and you have a raincoat, an umbrella, you don't freak out, you just say, oh, I know what time it is.

I gotta get my umbrella, right? Or if it's nice, you want to go to the beach, you know what to do because you understand the weather. Whoa, whoa. Ricky, that was such an incredible transmission. I mean, literally, it just was like, thank you so much in there. This is why you get the replay, you guys, because you can go back and listen to the wisdom that these astrologers are sharing their unique lens.

And I love, Ricky, that you brought it back around to direct relationship, because that's where I started the conversation. And we're here in consideration. We are with the stars, we are with the energetic frequencies of what the weather forecast is for the last half of the year. And even bigger than that, because we've definitely panned out into the bigger context of the story that we're all in here today.

And in the end, so this is a door opening. This is your opportunity to receive this information from these beautiful minds, from these beautiful hearts. And now you walk with it. And now you embody it and now you experience it. And then over time, these things, they become yours. You have your own living, breathing experience with the astrological energies. And through this you become more sovereign and your astrological fluency, and that enables you to contribute more to the group.

And even if that's not as a professional, even though it's just with people in your life when they're going, what the heck is going on? You now have this embodied wisdom. And like Ricky said, this, this is a tool that is becoming more and more and more important as the external world around us is becoming less certain, less dependable, less. You know, I don't know if it was probably always an illusion that they were dependable, but at least we believed that for a period of time and that gave us some comfort.

Right? But now we, we can see that. We can see the, the, the wizard of Oz. We can see that, like, oh, maybe they didn't have their stuff together. Like we thought maybe we need to bring that power back inside of ourselves. And astrology is a massive tool for you to do that. So, okay, just a couple things from what you said, Ricky, and then I'm going to let Georgia and Adam contribute as well.

But I loved what you talked about in terms of clues. So looking at the last year of your life and what are the clues? So where are the places in your life where you can sense where you've already experienced some inkling of a dramatic change? Maybe it's not dramatic yet, but you can sense that there is a shift, a fundamental shift that's happening somewhere in your life. And Ricky said to look to your chart to make sense of that, but also know that this is probably somewhere in your life where you're just at the beginning or you're just beginning.

Also, when you were speaking about beginning this, giving yourself permission to be playful with your life, to be playful with the things that you're starting to not have these high expectations of yourself. You're just a baby. You're a baby. And maybe surround yourself with. If there's any place where you can be around babies or children and watch them, because we forget as we, we grow up, we, we expect to be good at things.

It's like we have no business to expect ourselves to be good at. We've never done it before. So just watch our children and babies engage with new things and, and see if we can find that, that innocent, playful energy within ourselves. And yeah. Oh, also, I want to let you know that Ricky is our next inner circle teacher and he's going to be teaching that transit and progressions mastery class for the members.

So that's part of your membership. You will get to take this class with Ricky. So transits and progressions. He's also going to be leading us through the entire lunar cycle, tuning us into the energetic, the energies of the lunar cycle and teaching mastery class being available for a live Q and A and a chart reading demonstration where he's going to choose inner circle members charts to demonstrate the techniques that he is teaching.

He'll be available in the community to ask questions. So this is what our guiding astrologers do and, and Ricky's going to be our next one. So that's exciting. Okay. Georgia, Adam, anything you want to add to what Ricky said? Ricky, thank you. It's great to receive your transmission. I don't have anything to add but I want to ask you to kind of maybe riff on or how would you respond to a kind of a motivation that I've been operating from for a long time and working with individuals and couples and groups.

Is that 15, 85% the iceberg through the practice of astrology? Not over a couple months or a couple years, but a longer period of time. I have seen that actually starts to become 25, 75, 30, 70, 50, 50. And then even you tip over past the 51%. What's your experience there Ricky? 100%. I mean to me that's, that's the point. That's me too. That's the point. And you know, because just in my life I going through something and I made choices.

I mean they're in the, it's in the newspaper. I made choices and after I was like where did that come from? I was a football player so I didn't know any of this stuff but I had the experience of my conscious mind didn't want that to happen. That's completely clear. My conscious mind didn't want to happen but it keeps happening until I had this sense there's something else in there that I would like to get like have a relationship with so it doesn't get me in trouble.

And, and funny thing, six months later I have my first astrology read. Wasn't looking for it, it just came and found me because I had that question. I had that true deep desire to get to know who I am and those parts of me that I didn't know yet, those parts that I was not conscious of and the universe brought into my life astrology for that purpose. And I didn't know it at the time but the more I've studied and studied.

It's obvious to me now exactly how it all went down. So that's a brilliant insight and I see it every day. It's fascinating, Ricky, that when you started asking that question of why do I keep. Why did. Why do I sabotage myself? Or why do I keep repeating this pattern? Like, I don't want that consciously, but it's happening. So what's driving that and the fact that that led you to astrology?

I can 100 bazillion percent relate, and I'm sure many people in the chat could also relate that astrology comes in as, as a tool, like you said, as a map. That really helps you understand that the answer to that question. And Adam, I mean, the fact that you guys are seeing with your clients that, that through astrology and other modalities, it's not like only astrology. Right? But astrology is really amazing at this.

People are more and more aspects of themselves do become conscious. And what do you guys think is the benefit of having more aspects of ourselves in our conscious awareness? What, what do you see as the result of that? You know, I imagine someone walking in a dark room and stubbing their toe over and over again. And just the frustration. Have you ever been in a dark room where the lights went out?

And just a frustration. And I think for most people, because they don't even know astrology exists or that it can help turn, help them become more conscious that the norm has become walking in the dark and stubbing their toe. So it's. It's almost difficult to explain what it's like for that not to happen. If I had to put it in words, you know yourself better. There's fewer surprises in life.

Things make more sense, less confusion. You can laugh at yourself more because one of the beautiful things about astrology, ruled by Aquarius, the air sign and the planet Uranus is it gives us distance, right? We can intellectualize the juicy things that are going on in our lives and we can see how they're part of a coherent story. In this part of the coherent story. The most beautiful symbol to me in astrology is the circle, right?

The symbol of wholeness. My mom used to always say, God, don't make junk. But how many of us think that there's parts of us that are junk? It's just because we don't see clearly. So I think the value is a general improvement of your life, practical value as you make better choices because your choices are more aligned with who you really are meant to be. I would just Add on to that.

Right, right on. Ricky, the, the awareness piece, you're emphasizing the last seven, ten years of my life I've been just continually from different angles drawn to be applying my astrology work to a wider and a deeper application of somatic embodiment. And that's right now is a huge focus for me. It's less so. Once I have that objective clear map that gives me distance like Ricky is talking about.

Now I know what I need to dive deep into. And to do that, it's not just through awareness that will get me more into my body. Just having awareness of something will not help me cross the threshold to get deeper into. When I'm talking about getting into my body, what I'm specifically referring to is taking all of the wisdom and my goodness and my gifts and my superpowers actually infusing the functioning of my body, my intuition, my higher mental functions, my immune, my immunological responses, all of that into that and so there becomes like a whole other leap.

But instead of going out or going deeper in, I have this quote on my website. The astrology of the future will not take us further out. It will lead us deeper into ourselves. And so I have practices now in a couple courses to bring us in, like awareness. I mean I'm a big awareness addict. I'm a big junkie, you know, more and more wider, deeper, higher, better. You know, I've studied all kinds of maps of evolution and, and spiral dynamics and integral and all that.

But the real bleeding edge that so excites me still after all these years is to take all this incredible insights and possibility and vision into the sensuality and the, the intimacy of sharing of in myself and then sharing and co creating with another, including the planet, including Mother Earth and Mother Ocean and Mother sky, all of that. So that's where I just, I'm Ricky, I'm just so like right there with you.

Like right there with you. Yeah. And Adam, you're a great example of the possibilities with this. Because once you have the tool of astrology, it's one of those things, the more you use it, it just gets sharper and it can as deep as you can go, wherever you can go, it's always there with you as a tool to produce insight and to be able to see more clearly.

And it builds. I think that's the point I'm trying to make, especially for the beginners. It's so hard and it's so confusing, but it's, it's definitely worth it because once you get it, you Got it. And no one can ever take it away from. Can I, Can I just make a. A comment here? Yes, please, Ricky. I. Your theme of only only just begun, that's really something. I always look at, you know, somebody in the chat, I did look briefly at the chat during the break, was wondering, well, how do we get there?

How do we figure it out? You know, and so I, I think, number one, these are my comments in line with what you said, Ricky, we have to know our own personal history of what we did the last time these things happened. That's Saturn, okay? For example, the north node comes back every 18.6 years. When you're 19, when you're 36, when you're, you know, every 19 years. And where the north node is traveling is where you have an opportunity to eat the fire and try something.

Where the south node is traveling, or you have an opportunity to let go of the parts of that sign in that house that do not work. So that's a. And. And oftentimes people at 19, when I see clients, when I was seeing clients, I'd say, well, what are you doing at 19? And they're about 36? Well, I wanted to be a photographer, but my parents thought, blah, blah, blah.

And so now they're 36, or now they're, you know, the next cyclical. And I'm doing photography, okay? So that's one thing. The second thing, rulerships. I'm a big one on rulerships. What house is Pluto ruling in your chart? Pluto has moved seven or eight times since the late 19s. Since the late 30s. Seven or eight times rather than 30 years for Taurus. So wherever Scorpio is in your chart, every time Pluto starts in the first three degrees, where it's been is where there's a little baby step into looking at your own private underworld.

That's one way to look at this. The next thing is, what house does Uranus rule in your chart? And where. When it was there the last time, when entered a sign and the sign before and the sign before. That's seven years. What was going on in your life where it was happening in your chart? And the house that it rules, there was a new beginning there, and you probably messed up, you know, and you had to dump a bunch of stuff to move forward.

Another one, Chiron. Chiron. We don't know what house it rules. We haven't even talked about Chiron. But Chiron comes back every 52 years approximately, depending on its. And on Friday the 19th, Chiron entered the sign of Taurus briefly for eight weeks, ruled by Venus, which is. Are our values helping us or our values wounding us? It's going to go back to Aries, you know, in September through about April of next year, which is how we really wounded ourselves.

And how can we fix that? You have to look at the beginning of the signs. When they enter a sign, what house does Saturn rule in Your chart? And 29 and a half years ago, 1996 or 1965, if you've been around that long, what were you doing that made you change something? Or was there something that came in your life that got you think got in your way, that was a hindrance that actually threw you off and sent you in a different direction?

So this is. And Jupiter, what house does Jupiter rule? Pisces and Sag. Okay, it's going to go into Leo for, you know, the first three degrees, especially where 12 years ago did I benefit? Which we mentioned in the house is traveling, but what other. The other two houses it was ruling, did I expand my horizons? You know, And I hope that helps. In a nutshell, to answer the question of how do we find a way to find our way?

So, you know, this is just simple techniques, you know, and if people know astrology, it's a simple technique. And then the last thing is going right back to. You said, we have only just begun. Everything is starting new. And there. And I will briefly mention this because things.

Chiron, for example, is going to go back to 29. There is a. A branch of astrology called hori houri, whatever you want to use.

And it's about asking questions. And there's a cardinal rule. When a planet is in the first three degrees of a sign, it is too early to tell. Hello. When a planet is in the last two or three degrees of a sign, it is too late. You just have to wait, you know, And I think this is about doing your reconnaissance right now. Ask the questions. Pluto is about researching.

Ask the questions, find out, think if it's even possible. Do not go around blabbing what you want to do and lose the energy, you know, keep it inside. And because the thing about Neptune, and I know this because I have a lot of planets in Pisces, is if you envision something without judging it, that's Saturn. And you don't put a time frame on it. But every time you envision it, it fills you up with that ecstatic experience.

It's going to show up when you least expect it. I mean, my life, personally, that's how my life has been. I. Oh, I'd love to do this. And then it shows up, you know, without judging, can I get there? Can I not get there? And, you know, you're calling. People have callings, you know, My daughter just told me I have to share this with you. She just got that eclipse in April, in March, to hit her Mars.

And she said to me, three months later, mom, my calling is fostering pugs. I figured it out. She always loved dogs, you know, and she got this by accident through a friend. And now she's fostered eight pugs, given them to great homes. That's her calling. And she studied to be a lawyer. So this is the point, the contradictions. You know, just because you studied to do something or you, you know, you, you.

I'm, you know, I spent all this money on school and this and that, okay, that's part of who you're going to be, but that doesn't mean that that's you, but you'll use it. So I love. That's what I loved about your beginnings. It was so good. Well, and speaking of a great, shining example of that, let's look at Ricky. He think of how much time and energy you put into becoming a professional football player.

I'm sure that was very difficult to walk away from at the point that you did, but now you're using it in the context of astrology and bringing these metaphors to life in a way that only you could do based on the experience you had. So nothing's really wasted, you know, nothing that you have invested in or. It's like it's just not always. We're not always going to use it the way we thought we were going to use it logically, but we.

It's still part of who you are. It's still woven into the fabric of. Of who you are and what you have to offer. Okay, we're going to. I'm going to have the astro. Hold that thought, Georgia, because we're going to do a raffle. Yeah, we're going to do one more raffle. Actually, we have two more raffles to do, but we're going to do one right now. And then I want to get your closing thoughts.

Astrologers. So the next raffle is for three months in the inner circle. So you will be in the inner circle when Ricky is our guide. I am not a hundred percent sure who the other guides are going to be while you are with us in the inner circle, but they will be awesome. I can guarantee that. And you. Yes. Okay, so the winners of this are Erica Akir.

And Tracy Rutherford. Congratulations. Erica and Tracy. Oh, also, you get a signed copy of Life by the Stars. I didn't know that. You also get a signed copy of my book. So you're going to get my book, companion journal, and bookmark. Plus three months in the inner circle. Oh, yay. All right. It's another unlikely story. I was on one trajectory, and now here I am. And you get to hear that entire journey of my traversing through the wilderness.

And hopefully it will help you on your own journey through the wilderness. All right, so, Erica and Tracy, congratulations and welcome to the inner circle. All right. Okay, closing thoughts, astrologers, anything that you want to leave this community with. And then we'll announce the last raffle winner. Yeah, I do. I first want to say that was beautiful, Georgia, for a couple of reasons. One, you know, piggybacking off of the pattern or the theme of beginnings and even seeing where else that theme is showing up and leaning into it like, oh, that's so cool.

But the other part I didn't think of, but makes perfect sense in the beginning. Doing reconnaissance and depending on your level of astrology. You know, one thing I would add for this specific new beginning and reviewing the past year, where, where you've noticed things starting to change is what House? Because you can say a planet moving through the beginning of the sign is carrying beginning energy, and that.

That beginning of the sign energy is going to show up in an area of your life. Right? So, you know, in your research, looking in the past year and seeing what house Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto are in and see in those areas of life, what changes have you noticed in the past year? So simple. What changes in this area of life have I noticed in the past year?

And then see if you can connect it to the planets. So good, you guys, if. If they're saying this and you're like, I don't understand what they're saying, that's okay. Just know that you've gotten what you need to get out of this conversation here today. You will be ready for this level of conversation at some point. Also, you have the replay. So if you need to slow it down and go back and listen to all those things, Georgia, all those dates, all those, you know, references that Georgia gave, you're going to have this replay for free through Sunday night if you join the inner circle for life.

But so you have that resource. And sometimes I know it goes fast, so you just need to slow it down and. And meditate with each one, walk with each, with. With each of these Ideas and see if you find your clues and don't be too hard on yourself. This is playful. We're at New Beginnings. We're babies. Okay, Georgia or Adam, I, I have a thought about that question that the the could be says some of the viewers are really asking this question and you guys are so good at tools because in my aspects class I had all those handouts and you guys put together the 50 page booklet that goes with the class.

Okay, so now I could do this too. But maybe you have people that can do this for your viewers who are trying to get a handle on the last time these things change signs. It might be interesting to have a little cheat sheet about the sign ingresses of Uranus and the dates and that it rules Aquarius sign ingresses of Pluto and the dates and the and it rules Scorpio sign ingresses.

Well, don't do Mars because that's way too many transits. But Saturn ingress dates, you might want to go back to 1996, 1965, I think, or 60. No, 67. So that would help them in terms of this new beginning theme that we're talking about. And you may also want to also add the Saturn Neptune in Libra 1952 for those older people, the Saturn Neptune Capricorn in 1989 for the medium people and the Saturn Neptune in Aries for the baby baby people in 2025 and 2026 because there were what was happening in their lives after those things shifted.

It's, it would be a nice little cheat sheet for them. And if you don't want to do it, I can do it. But right now I'm writing a book, so. Yeah, no, no, no, Georgia, it's a great idea. Yeah. Because they're asking these questions and if they want to do a little work. Yeah. Then maybe they'll get a lot of insights as a result of the conversation today.

Yes, it's just my, you know, my practical side. You always have great ideas and we love implementing your ideas. So really good idea. I, I'm not going to make a promise, but I think that it's a fabulous thing that we could offer. So stay tuned. You know, on the podcast we often create gifts for you. Stay tuned. When we, when we mention that one, maybe we'll be able to pull it together for this actual event.

And in the replay, just check below the video and see if you're watching the replay. Check below and see. Yeah, okay, good. Anything else, Georgia, you want to leave us with as we close up the panel? Yeah, I will, I did have a book, I have ever several books and, and if you don't want to read the book, there is a film, but the book is really good.

It's a true story and it's called the professor and the Madman. And it's the story of how the Oxford English Dictionary, which is 12 volumes, enormous, was made. And they were struggling to get it made in England. Struggling. They couldn't get the right person. They, they got a professor who eventually was given a doctorate, but he really wasn't that trained. And he decided to talk to the community of the UK and get all their input on what they thought a word meant, how it was pronounced, what region they were from and all.

And it was a group effort, right? All these things came in. But one of the most unlikely places, and he did not know where most of these very valid things came from, was from a Civil War doctor who was in an asylum in England, and he was sending him anonymously, huge, wonderful help. And the Oxford English Dictionary would never have been made without all the contributions of the mad, insane, yet educated professor doctor at the asylum.

And eventually, what was interesting about that story is several years later, when the professor found out this man was in an asylum, he went to visit him regularly. And they were in the most different kinds of worlds, but they were friends till the end of their life. And so the point being that sometimes we find the answer in probably the most unlikely place and we just have to pay attention so much in there.

Georgia. Amazing. Thank you. Adam. Yeah, I, I want to, I guess, finally, I think this would be most helpful, is that the nodes are moving into Aquarius and Leo. Very soon the north node will be moving, will be retrograding back into Aquarius and while the south node moves into Leo. And I just want to kind of very, very briefly, bullet point this. I kind of see this as a, as an immediate action, like a window of time where we can take action on these things that everything that we're talking about here, I relate this in a very practical way to our inner guidance is going to be changing what we're connected with number one.

And number two, how we experience being intuitively guided may change in our bodies and in the quality of the energy that we're, or the intuition that we're picking up. So if you're only, if you're pretty set on. Well, it's always worked this way for me in the past, and you're looking for those clues, you're looking for those references, I would say don't do that. The the amount that we're going to have access to will increase, number one.

And number two, how we experience it, what feelings or senses or knowings will we need to adapt to and learn from. Very much along the theme here of we are only just beginning to find ourselves even more connected to the natural world, to our own rhythms, et cetera. And how. I would, how would I, I would kind of summarize, I guess this 19 month transit is that our personal, our personal identity find currently both consciously and unconsciously finds itself in between everything that we've learned or concluded about who we are and everything that we are wired for and that we're inspired by, by, and that we're excited about, even maybe sometimes a little fearful of becoming a part of something larger that is an expression of our own sovereignty.

And that in between place is, I see the tension in the, the nodal tension between Leo and Aquarius for the next 19 months. And this, what I'm saying here is not just meant to be applied to your mind, to your like intellectual understanding of what I'm saying. It's meant to be taken in and find your own inner movement, find your own inner painting, find your own inner swimming way of moving and exploring this.

Who we. I love what Ricky said before the age of becoming ourselves, that means up until now we haven't really been ourselves that much. And also who we are is finding a new expression, right? So it's an, it's an evolution. Okay. You three are spectacular. Such bright shining stars in the constellation of astrology. Hub in the constellation of the world. Thank you so much, so much for the guidance, the wisdom, the clarity, the all of you know, to embody astrology the way these three do this is years and years of study and application and researching and experiencing and trying things on and making mistakes and falling down and getting back up and staying with it.

So I just love getting to experience that through you because there's something about it that you can feel, you can feel the, the embodiment of it, you know, and the lived experience that you all have. So thank you for being here and sharing this with all of us. Thank you, all of you, for being a part of this community, for being with us today as we sit in consideration, as we sit in consideration with the stars.

Finding guidance, finding hope, finding inspiration, finding direction, finding clarity, opening ourselves up to listen, to integrate all of this wisdom and now knowing that it's in you, you get to carry this, you get to carry it through forward. You get to have your own experience of these transits of these energies of this time. And that is such a beautiful gift. So thank you for even taking the time to consider what the stars might be able to offer in your life.
